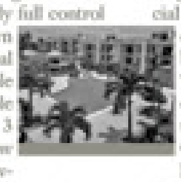
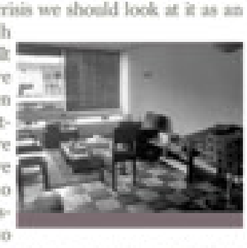
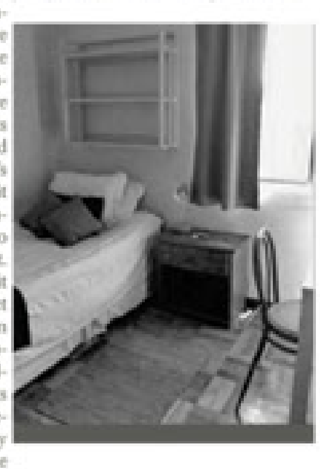
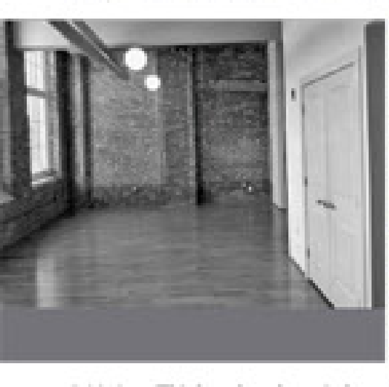
Sunni militants fighting under the banner of Al Qaeda appeared to make gains across Anbar Province on Saturday, using snipers and rocket-propelled grenades in heavy street fighting as they secured nearly full control of Falluja and captured the strategic town Karma. Government forces and the tribal militias fighting with them seemed unable to resist the militants advances. My humble words for my 71st birthday celebration on 3 Kings Day. i've been asked many times how i celebrate my birthday. Since i celebrate every day i wake up alive that for me is the best way i can answer the question regarding the celebration of my birthday. At my age i believe i've lived much longer than i had expected to live. And that's an excellent reason why i should celebrate every day i wake up, look up at the sky to see if there are stars or the moon out and feel the palpitation of my heart to confirm that i'm alive for real. The reaction to my allergies can make me aware that i'm alive, but that's something i don't really like to use because it can affect my desire to celebrate life.

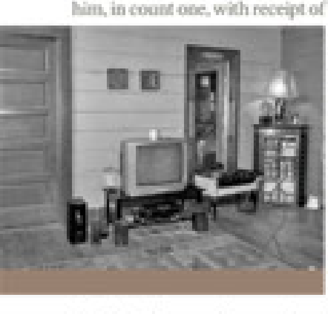


i believe we should celebrate every day just for having awoken. When i've this idea with people they have question it. My response is that we should pay attention to the relativity of the human destiny. Because it doesn't matter how miserable one feels and how bad one thinks conditions are, the fact remains one is alive. And when one feels miserable all one has to do is to look around and one will see another person in worse conditions doing what might look impossible and facing the challenge without complaining. If one feels miserable because he or she lost an eye the person he or she sees dealing with the challenge that seems impossible is totally blind. That's why we should always take into consideration the relativity of the human destiny. When we start a new year or the calendar is telling us a new year has started we should look at it as a chance to complete what we have not been able to accomplish in the past. When we face a crisis we should look at it as an opportunity to deal with it and to find a solution. It doesn't matter where we are. For example, when the earthquake devastated Mexico City and there was a major crisis we came up with the idea to raise funds from the prison population in order to give a hand to the victims of the earthquake. We talked to the staff and the idea was accepted. We were allowed to set up tables and get the prisoners to sign a form to have the money discounted from their funds. Within two hours we had raised over five thousand dollars. At first we had no idea how to help the victims. But after discussing the issue we were able to come up with a solution. We were able to do what for others seemed impossible. Celebrate life and not the commodification of it. We can share and enjoy the act of and make it meaningful. We can celebrate any such moment and give meaning to our daily life and make it a real important cultural event. Life is an act of giving and receiving. But when the sharing of gifts is commodified it becomes another act of consumerism and our culture is the one that suffers its consequences. Any moment we celebrate our culture we are helping to pass it on to future generations and to strengthened it. But if we allow it to become an act of consumerism we are contributing to its vulgarization and its demise. Let's celebrate 3 pass it on to future generations and to strengthened it. But if we allow it to become an act of consumerism we are contributing to its vulgarization and its demise. Let's celebrate 3 Kings Day and enjoy it to the utmost. If we believe a better and more just world is possible, we don't have to go to a far away place in the globe to make our contribution to such a lofty cause. We can do it right where we live. But we have to be willing to roll up our sleeves and do the hard work. Words are important, but it's the work that bears fruits. And if we learn one lesson in life that's worthwhile holding on and passing it on is that the only thing that's impossible is that that doesn't get done. It was Madeba who said that any problem us humans create have a solution. If there is a poverty problem it can be solved if we tackle it. Let's emulate Madeba's example. Let's dare to struggle. let's dare to win. Talk the talk and walk the walk. i leave you with a big hug with much love. Take care, abrazos, Oscar Lopez Rivera Anarchism is part of a broader range of libertarian socialist thought and action that includes the practical achievements of revolutionary Spain in 1936; reaches further to worker-owned enterprises spreading today in the American rust belt, in northern Mexico, in Egypt, and many other countries, most extensively in the Basque country in Spain; and encompasses the many cooperative movements around the world and a good part of feminist and civil and human rights initiatives. This broad tendency in human development seeks to identify structures of hierarchy, authority and domination that constrain human development, and then subject them to a very reasonable challenge: Justify yourself. A former Columbia, Illinois resident pled guilty on January 10, 2014, to a two-count indictment charging him, in count one, with receipt of visual depictions of minors engaged in sexually explicit conduct, in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 2252(a)(2); and, in count two, with possession of visual depictions of minors engaged in sexually explicit conduct, in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 2252(a)(4)(B), the United States Attorney for the Southern District of Illinois, Stephen R. Wigginton, announced today. Neil E. Purdy, 29, formerly of Columbia, Illinois, faces a term of imprisonment of not less than five but not more than 20 years, a fine up to $250,000, and a term of supervised release of five years to life on count one; and a term of imprisonment of not more than 10 years, a fine up to $250,000, and a term of supervised release of five years to life on count two. In addition, upon his release from prison, Purdy must register as a sex offender. Sentencing is scheduled for May 16, 2014, in East St. Louis, Illinois. Purdy has been held without bond since his initial appearance on April 26, 2013.









The investigation began on February 7, 2012, when an individual contacted the Columbia Police Department to report that the defendant molested his/her 14-year-old child. He/she also told the Columbia police that he/she saw the defendant "Google" the phrase, "where can I find really young porn." He/she said that, when he/she asked the defendant, "How long have you had this little problem?" Purdy responded, "About three years." On February 16, 2012, Purdy, a member of the U.S. Navy Reserve with top secret clearance, admitted to Columbia the number of hunger strikers in Guantanamo has doubled since the final set of official figures was released by the US authorities on December 2 2013. The report, compiled by human rights charity Reprieve, uses prisoner testimony to reveal that 33 men detained in Guantanamo are on hunger strike, with 16 being force fed. The Joint Task Force at Guantanamo, which runs the prison, announced in December of 2013 that they would no longer release official figures of those on hunger strike because they did not want to 'further their protests'. The report also reveals that authorities at the prison are punishing those on hunger strike by sending them to the strictest of the camps, "Camp V Echo". One detainee described his experiences there to his lawyer at Reprieve: "My cell in the dreadful Camp V Echo is constructed in a strange manner. It is designed to torture the person who is held there. All the surfaces made of steel. The bed is steel. The walls are steel. The floor is steel. The ceiling is steel. There is no toilet, but the hole in the ground is made of steel." British resident Shaker Aamer, who remains imprisoned despite having been cleared by both the Bush and Obama administrations, said: "[I was] strapped to the bed for 24 hours except to use the toilet. The [force-feeding] tube was in 24 hours a day. We would be fed for 30-40 minutes each time, with Ensure cans, two cans, three times a day. Some of the prisoners became zombies, as if they were already dead. I dropped weight to 130 pounds. I told the doctors, 'I want to die peacefully. I want no intervention.' But they refused this." Mr Aamer's British wife and four British children, the youngest of whom he has never met, live in London. British Prime Minister David Cameron has raised his case directly with President Obama, yet Mr Aamer remains imprisoned. There is an ongoing police investigation into Mr Aamer's treatment at the hands of British and US officials. 155 men are still detained in Guantanamo Bay, 77 of who have been cleared for release. Yesterday (Saturday) marked the twelfth anniversary of the first arrival of prisoners at the detention camp. Of the 779 men known to have been held there 624 have been released. More prisoners have died than have been put on trial. In an endlessly mutating world of media forms, scholars, creative practitioners and professionals in a variety of fields need to understand the ways in which media transforms and dissolves boundaries among disciplines and creates new forms of knowledge and cultural production. The Master of Arts (M.A.) in Media Studies provides students with the conceptual and practical tools necessary to prepare themselves to engage some of the fundamental challenges and complexities of our times. The program interrogates the social, practical, economic, political and theoretical stakes of mediation considered in the widest possible sense, encompassing more traditional approaches to the study of media (print, film, photography, audio and television), in conjunction with approaches that address the massive shifts produced by the computer and internet including gaming and social media Students will benefit from an academic environment shaped not only by theorists and critics, but also by distinguished practitioners of the forms being studied. Students study and work among theorists, artists and designers and are taught by faculty-practitioners. Our courses are small, intensive, seminars taught exclusively by professors. The program is 30 credits and can be completed in threesemesters. Among the core requirements are (1) six credit hours of courses

An individual who robbed a bank yesterday morning in Phoenix and who later was shot and killed in an exchange of gunfire with a Phoenix police detective has been identified as the same individual responsible for the attempted bank robbery in Atlanta, the robbery of the BancorpSouth in Tupelo, the shooting of Tupelo Police Officer Joseph Edward Maher, and the murder of Tupelo Police Officer Kevin "Gale" Stauffer. This identification has been made based upon similarities between these bank robberies, including the clothing worn by the bank robber, statements made by the bank robber during the robberies, and the robber's overall modus operandi, supported by other evidence and information collected during the course of this investigation. Additionally, cell phone records obtained via court order indicated that this individual's phone was in Atlanta, Tupelo, and Phoenix when the bank robberies were committed.

Not many people come to Fort McMurray, the notorious Alberta boom town on the edge of one of the world's largest industrial developments, to commune with the great northern woods. Most are here for the overtime, for the paid vacations, for the blue-collar jobs that pay six figures, for the work. This means that all of the bad things you've heard about Fort McMoney are true: the traffic really is murderous, there are liquor stores (many open until 2 a.m.) in every strip mall, and the place has a depressingly large population of desperately lonely guys blowing ridiculously fat paycheques on steroids, tattoos, monster trucks, and peelers. My name is Mr. Richard Blanc, I am the Credit Account Manager with Access Bank Limited Benin Republic in West Africa Region. I have an obscured business Transaction I wish to discuss and handle with you, if only you can give it a little attention. BRIEF DETAIL OF TRANSACTION: It involves moving an Excess Maximum Returned Capital Profit (EMRCP) of 1.2% to any of your Overseas bank account, and commence a standard Investment.

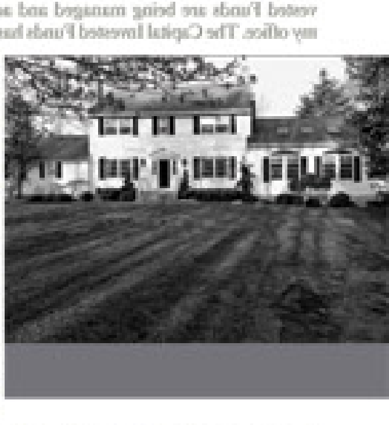
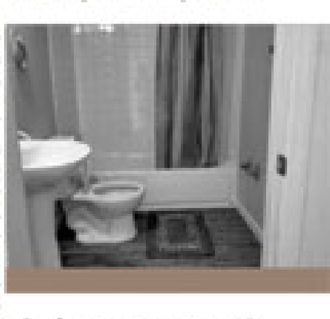
In Access Bank Limited, We have well over 158 Corporate Investors, Locally and Internationally, who invested their Capital Funds in our bank, and those Capital Invested Funds are being managed and administered by my office. The Capital Invested Funds has a value of over US$22Billion net. This Value is been used for Trading in Stock Market, Crude Oil business and Lending with Profit Returns. At Every end of year, each Corporate Investor is entitled to receive a 100% Dividend/Interest benefits of any Amount invested . However, Access Bank Limited has a Targeted Capital Profit of 20% in every year, but in the year 2012, my office made an over targeted profit to the tune of 21.2% which 20% targeted profit was reported and submitted to the management. Since 2012 i have deposited and placed the over-accrude profit of 1.2% which has value of US$1.5Million in a supense account until date.



With all due respect, I seek your concept and permission to present you to our bank as one of our bank foreign investors who has not receive his 2012 dividend benefit, so that our bank will transfer this over maximum profit of 1.2% (US$1.5Million) to your nominated bank account, for both of us to share among ourselves. Note, after handling this project successfully, you will get 50% of the total fund and 50% for me.



The South African sugar giant Illovo has 6159 hectares of sugarcane in Malawi, where it is a monopoly with an annual production of 2.8 million metric tonnes of sugar. The company denies persistent claims that it has grabbed land from smallholder farmers "Everybody loves Illovo" is the common slogan emblazoned on millions of sugar packets sold daily by Illovo Sugar (Malawi) Limited, the country's sole producer. However, for subsistence farmers at Kachibundi, Mwale, Kazilira and Kalimakhola at Dwangwa about 250 kilometres from Malawi's Capital City, Lilongwe, the slogan is a bitter-sweet fallacy. "I was dispossessed of my two and half hectares - my only source of livelihood," said farmer Joseph Mwale. "Now, I am suffering because I have to work in other people's farms to make ends meet." At 38, Mwale looks lost and confused as he narrates details of the evictions. There is fear, hatred and resignation that Malawi's justice system, and the overall structure of land administration favours the rich at the expense of the poor. Tammy Dickinson, United States Attorney for the Western District of Missouri, announced that a Nixa, Missouri man was sentenced in federal court today for receiving and distributing child pornography over the Internet. Charles Williams, 28, of Nixa, was sentenced by U.S. District Judge Brian C. Wimes to 10 years and 10 months in federal prison without parole. Williams, who pleaded guilty on August 7, 2013, admitted that he used peer-to-peer file-sharing programs on two laptop computers to download and distribute dozens of videos and photos of child pornography over the Internet from April 9 to September 27, 2011.

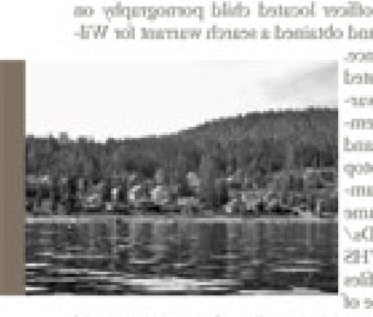
A Nixa police officer used a peer-to-peer file-sharing program to connect to Williams' computer over the Internet. The officer located child pornography on the computer and obtained a search warrant for Williams' residence. Officers executed the search warrant on September 27, 2011 and seized two laptop computers, two cameras, two videogame consoles, 115 CDs/DVDs, and a VHS tape. Among the files discovered on one of the laptop computers was a video of a 4- to 5-year-old child being raped by an adult. Williams was arrested on September 27, 2011.



Investigators conducted an examination of Williams' computers and found 52 incomplete or partially downloaded videos of child pornography, 29 saved videos of child pornography, eight videos of child pornography in the recycle bin, and 13 images of child pornography.

This case was prosecuted by Assistant U.S. Attorney Randall D. Eggert. It was investigated by the FBI and the Nixa Police Department. Last week, the Justice Department convened hearings under the Prison Rape Elimination Act to examine the prevalence of rape and sexual abuse in the nation's prisons and juvenile detention centers. As we've reported, the department has found alarming rates of abuse by staff on youngsters in custody. In a 2013 survey of more than 8,700 juveniles housed in 326 facilities across the country, 8 percent said they experienced sex abuse at the hands of the staff supervising them. Twenty percent of those who said they were victimized by staff said it happened on more than 10 occasions. But perhaps the most surprising finding: Nine out of 10 victims were males abused by female staffers. The prison rape elimination legislation first passed in 2003, but it then took the Justice Department nearly 10 years to study the issue and release rules for prisons and juvenile detention centers to implement. In November 2001, when the CIA assassinated al-Qaeda commander Mohammed Atef with a killer drone in Kandahar, Afghanistan, the U.S. held a virtual monopoly on the technology of lethal robots. Today, more than 70 countries in the world deploy drones, 16 of them the deadly variety, and many of those drones target rural people living on the margins of the modern world.

Armed drones have been hailed as a technological breakthrough in the fight against terrorists who, in the words of President Obama, “take refuge in remote tribal regions, hide in caves and walled compounds, train in empty deserts and rugged mountains.” But much of the butcher's bill for the drones has fallen on people who live in those deserts and mountains, many of whom are simply in the wrong place at the wrong time or get swept into a definition of “terrorist” so broad it that embraces virtually all adult males.

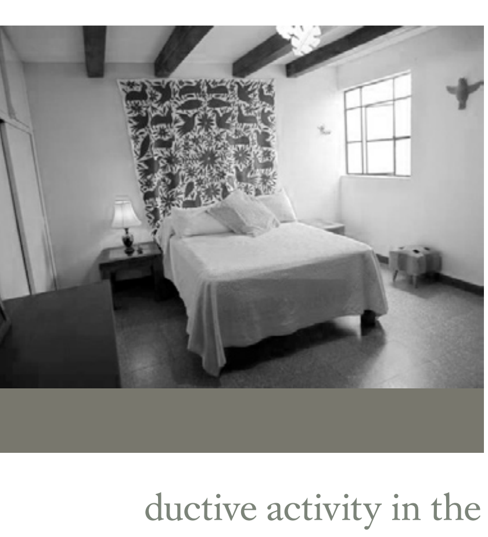
Houses with sturdy masonry walls and reinforced concrete roofs, looking like they could survive any tropical storm or hurricane, are sprouting up on the outskirts of this city in central Cuba, thanks to the development of local production of construction materials.

People in this neighbourhood, which is fairly new, have been improving their little houses. We support the neighbours and workers of the area, who buy the materials, and we lend them the block-making machine, said Arcides Prez, the owner of a small block-making factory. We only charge them for the electricity used, he said.

Operating on the outskirts of Ciego de vila, 434 km east of Havana, this noisy artisanal factory can produce up to 1,000 cement blocks a day when supplies are available. It also has three moulds to make different types of asbestos cement water tanks, all marked Arcides, C. de vila.

Two cement mixers, wheelbarrows, spades and an electrically driven machine turning out two blocks a minute are operated by seven men, while two women work finishing the blocks and preparing the raw materials. The team offers transportation of the tanks and installs them on rooftops or as cisterns.

To get raw materials, Prez and his group travel to cement factories in Sancti Spritus and Santiago de Cuba, 360 and 847 km east of Havana, respectively, to pick up discarded rubble that they then mix with cement bought in state stores to make their blocks and tanks.



Housing construction is a priority in Cubas current economic reforms. Among the first changes was the sale of construction materials in national currency, diversification of supply and provision of credits and subsidies for low-income families.

The authorities hope that within two years, 70 percent of the productive activity in the housing sector will be carried out by private actors, as they seek to revitalise a sector that has been centralised by the state for decades.

In 2002, almost 2,000 protesters, including many Aboriginal residents of Taiwan's Orchid Island and elementary and high school students staged a sit-in in front of the storage plant, calling on Taipower to remove nuclear waste from the island. They were also protesting against the government's failure to keep its pledge to withdraw 100,000 barrels of low-level nuclear waste from their isle by the end of 2002. In a bid to allay safety concerns, Taipower has pledged to repackage the waste since many of the iron barrels used for storage have become rusty from the island's salty and humid air. Taipower has for years been exploring ways to ship the nuclear waste overseas for final storage, but plans to store the waste in an abandoned North Korean coal mine have met with strong protests from neighboring South Korea and Japan due to safety and environmental concerns, while storage in Russia or China is complicated by political factors. Taipower is “trying to convince the islanders to extend the storage arrangement for another nine years in exchange for payment of NT$200 million (about $5.7 million)”.

Hello,

I am a Capt Melvin Scarbo Jr. commanding 2nd Battalion, 3rd Marine Regiment with the United States and Britain Coalition Force in Afghanistan. Due the decision by our Government to withdraw our troops from Afghanistan & Iraq. I have decided to quit the Marines.

I am considering a possibility of doing business, which is why I'm reaching out to you. On the other hand I want to inform you that I have in my possession the sum of $15.2 Million (US Dollars) which I recovered during one of our raids on terrorists here in Afghanistan, possibly funds left by Afghan Government. I do not intend handing this money over to the Government, and I did deposit the money with a Red Cross agent informing him that we are making contact for the real owner of the money. It is under my power to approve whoever comes forth for this money.

I wish to use this money to start a new life back with my family as soon as I get off this hostile desert. I want you to help me out in this deal this only opportunity of quitting the military and having a peaceful life. Once

I move this money out of here through diplomatic courier service which is the safest means. I can't fight terrorists and criminals here my entire life.

I am Mr Hamzak Wadrago, the chief operating officer with my bank and I want to inform you that an amount of US$15.5 million will be moved on your name as the Foreign Business Partner to our late deceased customer. I need your help to receive this money as we shall share the money in the ratio of 60:40%. You will receive this amount through a bank wire transfer.

Please send your full names, direct telephone numbers, and physical address, more details will be given upon your reply.

Your quick response will be highly appreciated. Yours sincerely,

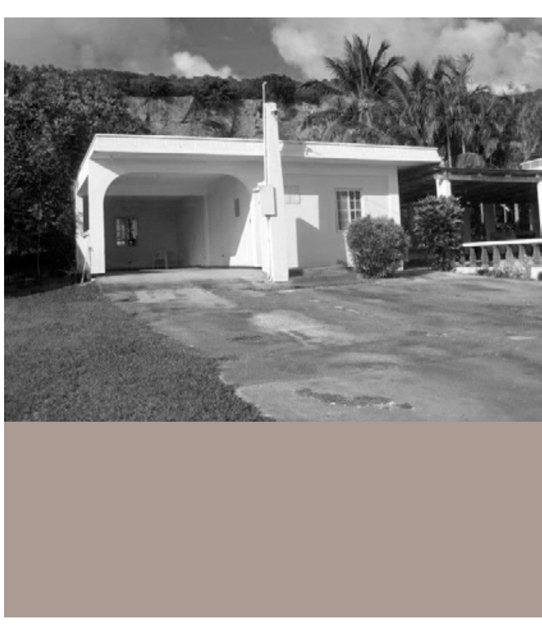
Sequel to your non response to my previous email, I am re-sending this to you again thus; A deceased client of mine, that shares the same last name as yours,who died as the result of a heart-related condition on January 28th 2009. I have contacted you to assist in distributing the money left behind by my client which is lodged in the bank.

After guards tortured fellow prisoner Isaac Sanchez in the torture chair overnight and threatened several Dallas 6 members with death, inmates Andre Jacobs, Carrington Keys, Duane Peter, Derrick Stanley, Anthony Locke and Anthony Kelly decided that they did not want to suffer anymore. Covering their cell door windows with bedding, the prisoners demanded that the abuse stop, and requested access to their counselors, state police, the District Attorney and the Public Defenders Office. They had no access to telephones or computers and their incoming and out-going mail were being destroyed to undermine their ability to expose the corruption.

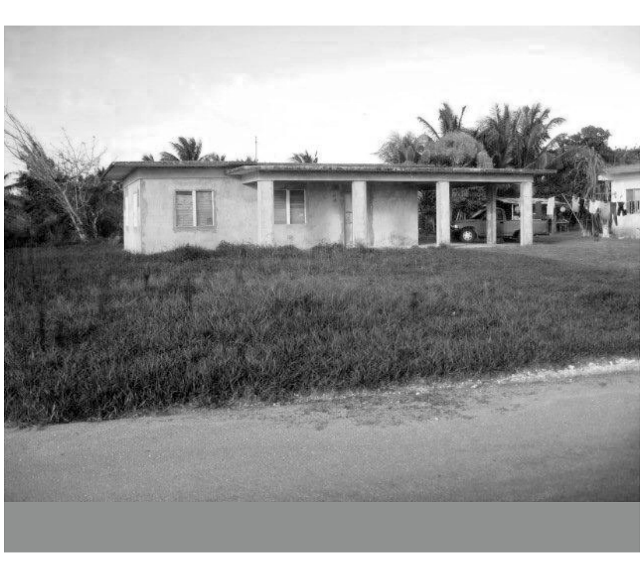
Rather than investigate or attempt to resolve the issues which occurred for over a year prior to April 29, 2010, prison officials staged an armed assault against the unarmed men, who were all locked inside of their individual cells, viciously attacking them with electro-shock shields, tazers, fists, and pepper-spray. While all of the guards involved in the incident admitted that they did not suffer any injuries, members of the Dallas 6 were left bloody, naked, with burnt skin, and in pain.

Hundreds of Palestinian protesters set sail from Gaza on Monday in protest of the ongoing Israeli naval blockade that prevents fishing, trade, and freedom of movement for Palestinians living inside the resource-strapped territory.



Protesters say the blockade -- which restricts Gazans from traveling more than six miles from shore -- stifles the local fishing industry and adds to the food crisis and resource shortage in Gaza which stems from the Israeli-imposed blockade and militarization of Gaza's borders.

The movie is based on the true story of a group of celeb-obsessed teenagers who went on a crime-spree in the Hollywood Hills. The gang tracked their favorite celebrities online, learning their schedules and addresses, and then proceeded to steal more than 3 million dollars in luxury goods from the homes Paris Hilton, Orlando Bloom, Lindsay Lohan, Rachel Bilson, and others earning them the nickname, “The Bling Ring.”



An old gentleman lived alone in New Jersey. He wanted to plant his annual tomato garden, but it was very difficult work, as the ground was hard. His only son, Vincent, who used to help him, was in prison. The old man wrote a l etter to his son and described his predicament: Dear Vincent, I am feel ing pretty sad because it looks like I won't be able to plant my tomato g arden this year. I'm just getting too old to be digging up a garden plot. I know if you were here my troubles would be over. I know you would be happy to dig the plot for me, like in the old days. Love, Papa A few day s later he received a letter from his son. Dear Papa, Don't dig up that garden. That's where the bodies are buried. Love, Vinnie At 4 a.m. the next morning, FBI agents and local police arrived and dug up the entire area without finding any bodies. They apologized to the old man and left. That same day the old man received another letter from his son. Dear Papa , Go ahead and plant the tomatoes now. That's the best I could do under the circumstances. Love you, Vinnie Financialization, militarization, and criminalization - forces that exacerbate the huge array of problems we face-poverty, unemployment, mass incarceration, climate destruction, gun violence, financial corruption, spying and privacy, and much more. They threaten democracy, fray our social order, worsen conditions in communities round the world, and damage our psychological health.

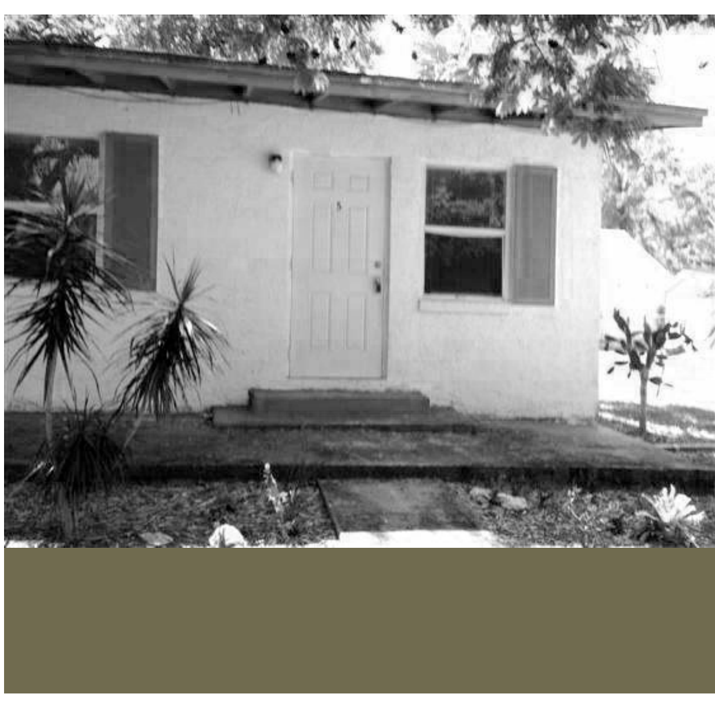
As a result, many of us are alarmed at the direction of our country, and rightly so. By many measures, our society is a depressing mess. Tens of millions are severely suffering economically, while many more are stressed out and traumatized, desperately attempting to cope with both chronic and acute problems they have never faced before.

Parking was very easy and close to the beach...$2/hour. Some shade available if you get there early. A few picnic tables available, again, if you get there early. Beach was clean, sand was white, sun was warm and bright. No waves, most shells had algae & mud stains, White sand only on beach. Once you get in water, it is very silty/muddy. We enjoyed relaxing here and would go back.

Antonio Mesngon, Jr. of Rota landed a 9.19-lb black jack to top the Biggest Category in the 2013 Rota Cliff Fishing Derby held on June 13-14, 2013. Thirty-six fishermen from Guam and Rota joined this month's derby, an annual signature event of the Northern Mariana Islands organized by the Marianas Visitors Authority and the municipality of Rota.

Governments always claim security as their justification for civil liberties abuses, but that overwhelmingly the security in question is that of the state ... from its own population. America's drone campaign abroad is a far bigger threat to our security than leaked information about surveillance.

Iodine-131 can be ingested into the thyroid, where it emits beta particles (electrons) that damage tissue. A plague of damaged thyroids has already been reported among as many as 40 percent of the children in the Fukushima area. That percentage can only go higher. In developing youngsters, it can stunt both physical and mental growth. Among adults it causes a very wide range of ancillary ailments, including cancer.



Cesium-137 from Fukushima has been found in fish caught as far away as California. It spreads throughout the body, but tends to accumulate in the muscles.

Strontium-90's half-life is around 29 years. It mimics calcium and goes to our bones.

That these are among the isotopes being dumped into the Pacific is the worst news to come from Japan since Hiroshima and Nagasaki, whose bombings occurred 68 years ago this week, and whose fallout has been vastly exceeded at Fukushima.

Indeed, Japanese experts have already estimated Fukushima's fallout at 20-30 times as high as the 1945 bombings.

The U.S. government is dead serious about climate change, but not in the way you might think. While carbon taxes and green grids remain decidedly out of reach on Capitol Hill, planners at the Pentagon have been quietly preparing to take charge of a planet shaken by climate chaos. Predicting ever more extreme weather, famine, and social collapse around the globe, high-level experts like former CIA director James Woolsey and former U.S. Army Chief of Staff Gordon Sullivan outline a chilling vision of endemic violence and "militarized adaptation" to disaster. As hunger and disease turn to conflict in the Global South, planners inside and outside the Pentagon are preparing to shut borders, control population movements, and intensify U.S. intervention abroad.

The staple food in East Timor is rice. Commonly grown food crops include taro, cassava, sweet potatoes and maize. Beans, cabbage, cowpeas, onions, tomatoes and spinach are well-liked vegetables. People also rear poultry, goats and pigs. Fish forms an important part of the diet and acts as a supplement to any meal. Most traditional East Timorese recipes use a generous dose of spices. Mangoes, watermelons, papayas, bananas and coconuts are the most commonly cultivated fruits here. Carbohydrates like sago or other grains form the main dish for many a East Timorese meal.

Drones are heating up the territorial dispute between China and Japan over the Senkaku Islands. At the same time, China is expanding research and production of their own drones and Japan is considering political and military reforms. These developments could bring about a major shift in the regional strategic dynamic.

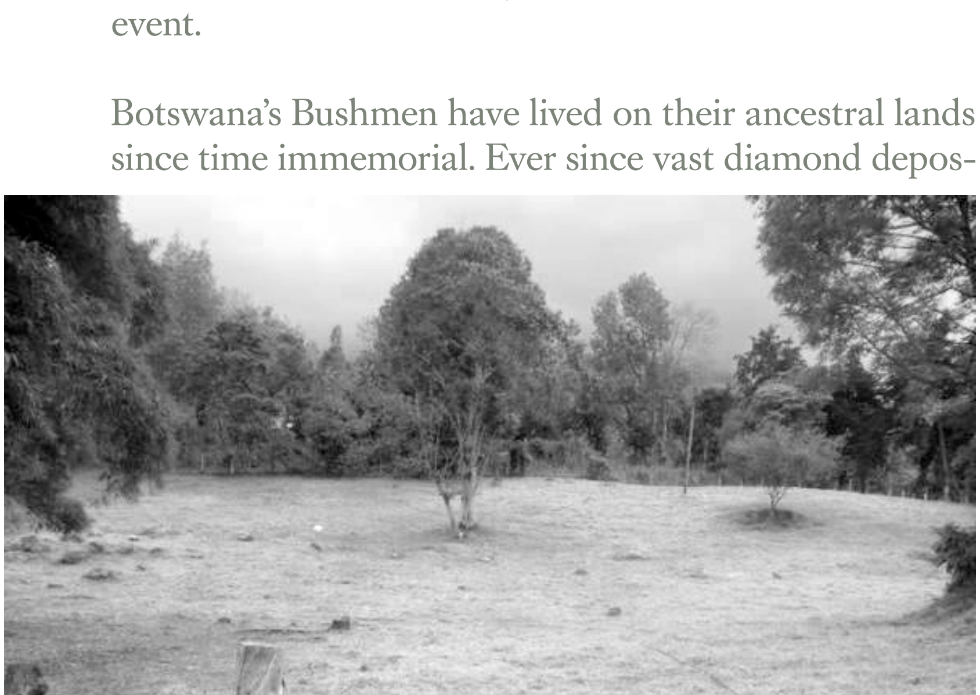
Last year more US military personnel died by their own hands than by the hands of others, and on any given night, nearly 63,000 veterans are homeless. Many veterans suffer debilitating chronic problems.

Measuring just under 200 meters (about 656 feet), the twin towers of the European Central Bank's (ECB) new headquarters in Frankfurt can be seen from the city limits. From these lofty heights, Europe's financial experts will watch over the EU's common currency when the building is completed a year from now.

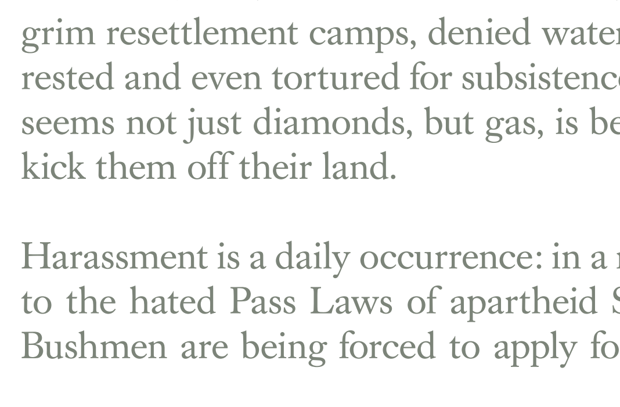
Together with the European Union and the International Monetary Fund (IMF), they will oversee the efforts of Southern Europe's crisis-battered states to stick with their austerity schemes.

And for that reason, the towers in the city's east end are also expected to become the new center of a storm of protest. The first demonstration is already scheduled for the day of the official opening, and on Sunday (24.11.2013), representatives of the Blockupy movement will plan for that event.

Botswana's Bushmen have lived on their ancestral lands since time immemorial. Ever since vast diamond deposits were discovered in the reserve, the tribe has been ruthlessly and relentlessly persecuted by their government -- evicted from their homes and forced to live in grim resettlement camps, denied water, intimidated, arrested and even tortured for subsistence hunting. Now it seems not just diamonds, but gas, is behind attempts to kick them off their land.



Harassment is a daily occurrence: in a rule eerily similar to the hated Pass Laws of apartheid South Africa, the Bushmen are being forced to apply for temporary permits to visit their families. "Overstay" and they risk being arrested. And their British lawyer has been barred from the country.



As one of the featured artists in UNTITLED PROJECTS, Camilo Restrepo created an installation consisting of two in-process drawings and an elaborate system of steam-emitting tubes connected to a pressure cooker. During the run of UNTITLED, Restrepo will use steam to melt away the top layer of the drawings. In so doing, a hidden layer of imagery will be revealed that depicts, like a map, the interconnected and complicated network of Colombian narco-players.

Generations more will die or live poor butchered half-lives if you fail to act.

Garrett, who worked as an overnight stocker, explained to his supervisor that he was striking to protest unfair labor practices and that it was illegal to fire him for participating. "We don't recognize strikers," his supervisor told him.

Among the six people from his store who struck, two were fired and the other four were given warnings. (Accumulate three warnings and you're out. "Like baseball," Garrett explained.)

The expert stressed that corruption was the reason why all government owned depots and storage facilities have all been destroyed while those belonging to the private sector are very functional with one man owning about 40 per cent of storage facilities used in the industry.

Halfway is nestled in the center of Pine Valley between Richland (Eagle Valley) and Oxbow (Hells Canyon). During spring, summer, and fall, downtown is festooned with colorful hanging flower baskets maintained by the city's youth groups. And with abundant snow, Halfway's neighborly traffic is punctuated by the roar of snowmobiles.

Your New Friend Miss Ciara

Albert Woodfox and Herman Wallace were both convicted of the 1972 murder of prison guard, Brent Miller. There was no physical evidence to link them to the crime and their convictions relied primarily on the dubious testimony of a sole eyewitness who received favourable treatment in return for his testimony.

Both men have robustly denied any involvement in the crime. They believe they were falsely implicated in the murder because of their political activism in prison as members of the Black Panther Party.

Earlier this year a federal judge overturned the conviction. However Albert Woodfox continues to languish in prison after the state of Louisiana appealed against his release.

Although the 2013 SNAP (food stamp) budget of $78 billion isless than the 2012 investment earnings of 20 wealthy Americans, SNAP is being cut while not a penny extra is taken from the multi-billionaires.

The children, who make up nearly half of the 48 million recipients, will now get $1.40 for a meal instead of $1.50.

Freedom has become one of those politically charged terms that means whatever people need it to mean. There is no coherent conception of freedom, though, in which it only exists at the pleasure of the U.S. military. It's simply a non sequitur. The "freedoms" most Americans think of when they hear the term are enshrined in constitutional and statutory law. They are in no way dependent on the size, scope or even the existence of the U.S. military.

BOQUILLAS, Coahuila, Mexico A formal border crossing opened a few weeks ago along the Texas-Mexico border. It links a remote Mexican village with Big Bend National Park in West Texas. Villagers on the Mexican side, in the tiny village of Boquillas, hope the crossing will bring back the tourists who sustained their economy in the past, and they're already working to rebuild the tourist infrastructure.

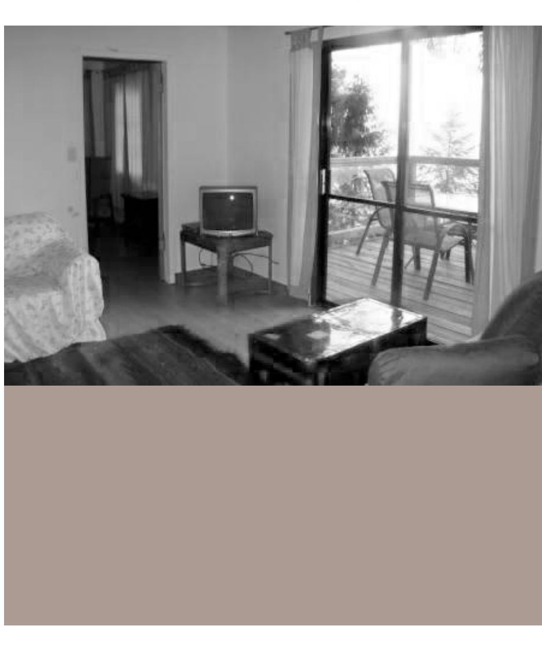
Fast-food workers in New York City are expected to walk off their jobs Thursday, one year after their first strike, joining a 100-city strike wave. Organizers say actions will take place all across the country as part of the movement for $15 an hour and the right to form a union without retaliation.



The process is gradual, insidious, lethal. It starts with financial stress in various forms, and then, according to growing evidence, leads to health problems and shorter lives.

Financial stress is brought upon us by the profit motive of capitalism, which offers little incentive to feed hungry children, to treat the sick, to secure us in retirement, to provide job opportunities for middle-class Americans. Some of the steps in the process are becoming more and more familiar to us.

Biodynamic agriculture is a method of organic farming originally developed by Rudolf Steiner that employs what proponents describe as "a holistic understanding of agricultural processes". One of the first sustainable agriculture movements, it treats soil fertility, plant growth, and livestock care as ecologically interrelated tasks, emphasizing spiritual and mystical perspectives. Proponents of biodynamic agriculture, including Steiner, have characterized it as "spiritual science" as part of the larger anthroposophy movement.

Biodynamics has much in common with other organic approaches it emphasizes the use of manures and composts and excludes the use of artificial chemicals on soil and plants. Methods unique to the biodynamic approach include its treatment of animals, crops, and soil as a single system; an emphasis from its beginnings on local production and distribution systems; its use of traditional and development of new local breeds and varieties; and the use of an astrological sowing and planting calendar. Biodynamic agriculture uses various herbal and mineral additives for compost additives and field sprays; these are sometimes prepared by controversial methods, such as burying ground quartz stuffed into the horn of a cow, which are said to harvest "cosmic forces in the soil", that are more akin to sympathetic magic than agronomy.

In 2002, almost 2,000 protesters, including many Aboriginal residents of Taiwan's Orchid Island and elementary and high school students staged a sit-in in front of the storage plant, calling on Taipower to remove nuclear waste from the island. They were also protesting against the government's failure to keep its pledge to withdraw 100,000 barrels of low-level nuclear waste from their isle by the end of 2002. In a bid to allay safety concerns, Taipower has pledged to repackage the waste since many of the iron barrels used for storage have become rusty from the island's salty and humid air. Taipower has for years been exploring ways to ship the nuclear waste overseas for final storage, but plans to store the waste in an abandoned North Korean coal mine have met with strong protests from neighboring South Korea and Japan due to safety and environmental concerns, while storage in Russia or China is complicated by political factors. Taipower is "trying to convince the islanders to extend the storage arrangement for another nine years in exchange for payment of NT$200 million (about $5.7 million)".

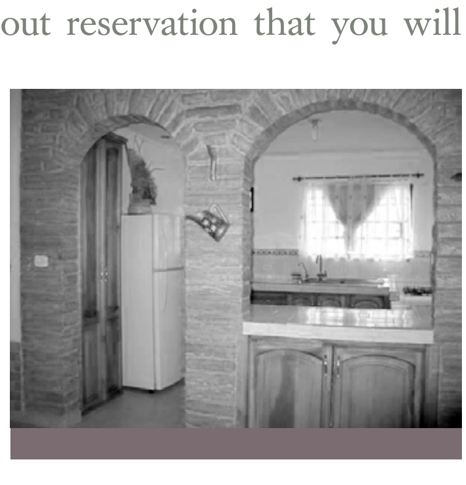
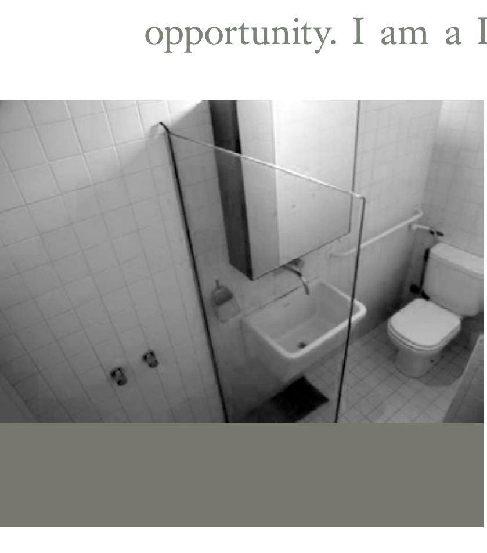
URGENT REQUEST FOR MUTUAL BUSINESS RELATIONSHIP REQUIRING TRUST & STRICT CONFIDENCE.

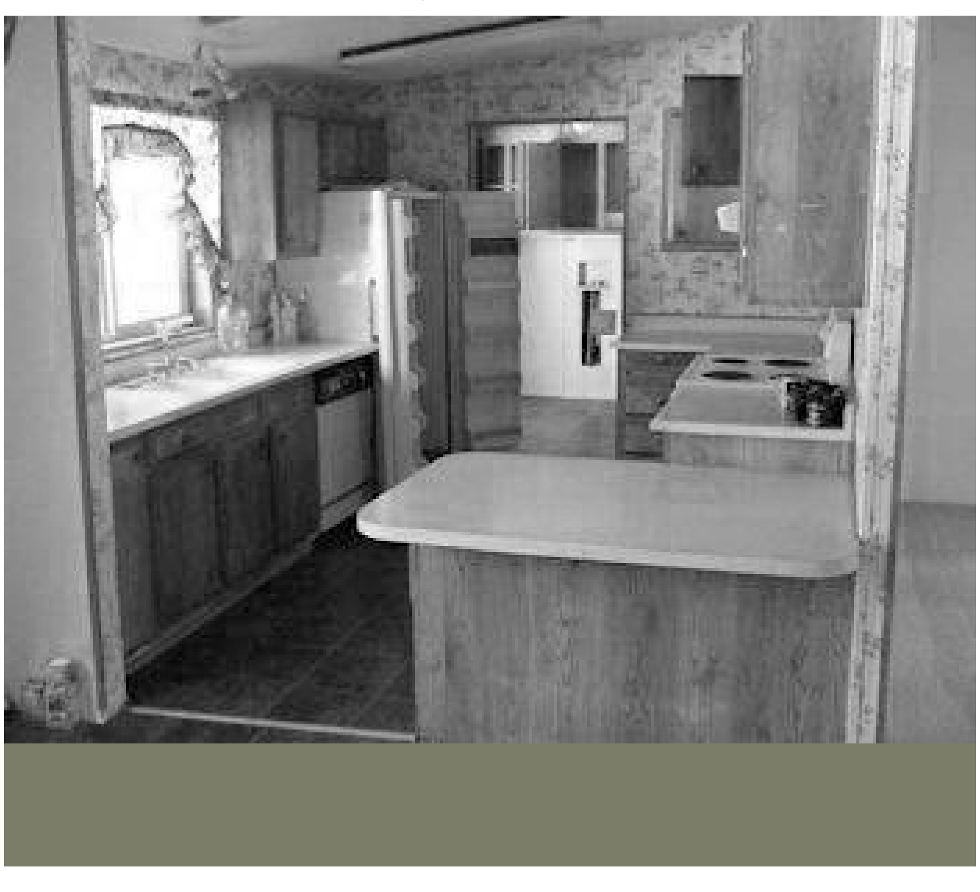


I am sending this Business Proposal to you on trust & with all assumption without reservation that you will be honest. Although this proposal might come to you as a surprise,since its from someone you do not know or have seen before, but based on trust, & reliability. My question is can you be trusted? This transaction under consideration means everything in the World to me & my colleague as once in a lifetime opportunity. I am a Director with the Nigerian Ports Authority. This establishment is solely responsible for the Nations Sea Ports, Goods & Services, Import & Export Services. A major source of income revenue generation for the Economy.



The truth of this letter is that the finance/contract department of the Nigerian Ports Authority (N.P.A) deliberately over inflated the contract value of various contracts awarded to various Contracting Firms. The Contracts were purchase of Machinaries for turn around maintenance of all the seaports, purchase of maritime equipments for all the seaports. It does not matter whether your establishment or organization offers such services or related services. What we require is your trust & confidence. The Contracting Firms that Executed the Contracts has long been paid there Contractual Entitlements.

In the course of discharge of my official responsibilities. My office was able to track down the sum of US$21.5M (Twenty One Million, Five Hundred^ Thousand U.S Dollars) as the over invoiced sum.This money is now floating in the N.P.A domiciliary account with the Central Bank of Nigeria(CBN). I and my colleagues now want to quickly transfer this fund to a safe nominated foreign account for possible investment.



Tracheliastes polycolpus is a parasitic copepod that live on freshwater fish and do so by attaching to the fins of their host, grazing on mucus and epithelial cells. While T. polycolpus can infect handful of different freshwater fishes, it is primarily found on the beaked dace (Leuciscus burdigalensis). When they occur in large numbers, their feeding activities can severely erode the fins of their hosts, so much that in some fish the fins gnawed down to mere nubs.

On Friday evening, a bunch of cyber criminals just broke into BIPs -Bitcoin payment processor servers and wiped out around 1,295 Bitcoin from people's wallets, currently worth $1 Million. More than 22,000 consumer wallets have been compromised and BIPS will be contacting the affected users.

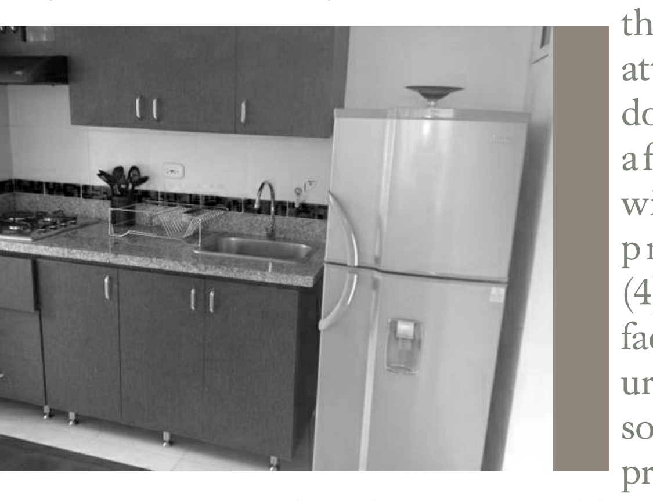
(1) are you a program or a department? (2) If a program, why NOT a department? If a department, is it a freestanding one or one that is sort of "merged" with programs--"Department of Global and Interdisciplinary Studies," for example? (3) how many faculty are attached to your program/department? Are they FULLY attached, or do they have affiliations with other programs? (4) are your faculty tenure-track? If so, in your program/department, or in another department? (5) what sort of credentials do your faculty have? Terminal degrees? In what fields?



Thank you in advance for any and all information!

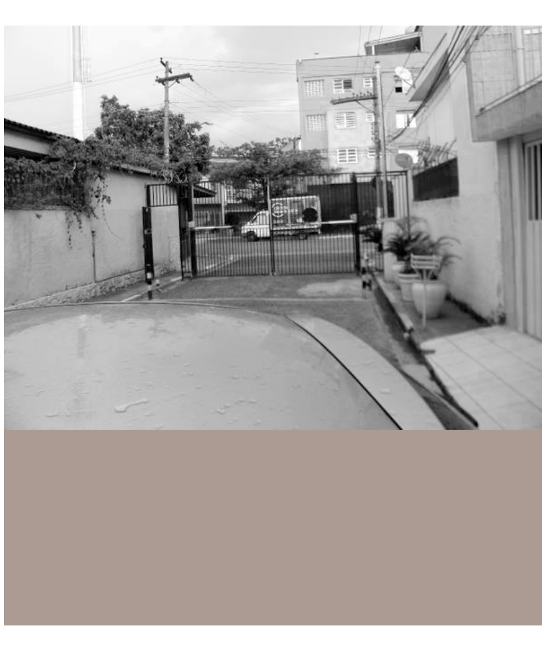
Officials say a Florida Panhandle deputy ran over a woman who was sleeping on the beach.

Florida Highway Patrol investigators have found Deputy Chad Biernacki at fault for the Tuesday evening accident.

The Walton County Sheriff's Office reports that Biernacki was patrolling Miramar Beach when he issued a group of underage drinkers notices to appear. After getting back into his truck, Biernacki was making a U-turn when his right front tire rolled over 21-year-old Jessica Nystrom. The Northwest Florida Daily News reports that the woman was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital Tuesday night and then released Wednesday.

FHP says the crash remains under investigation, but alcohol did not seem to be a factor. While Biernacki was found to be at fault, it wasn't immediately clear what charges he would face. He will remain on active duty.



A newborn baby girl died in Indias northern Punjab state after doctors removed her from an incubator that her parents couldnt afford. The incubator cost the hospital 200 rupees ($3.60).

A premature newborn girl was in critical condition and needed incubator support in order to live. Two days after placing her in the incubator, hospital officials demanded that the family pay 200 rupees towards electricity charges.

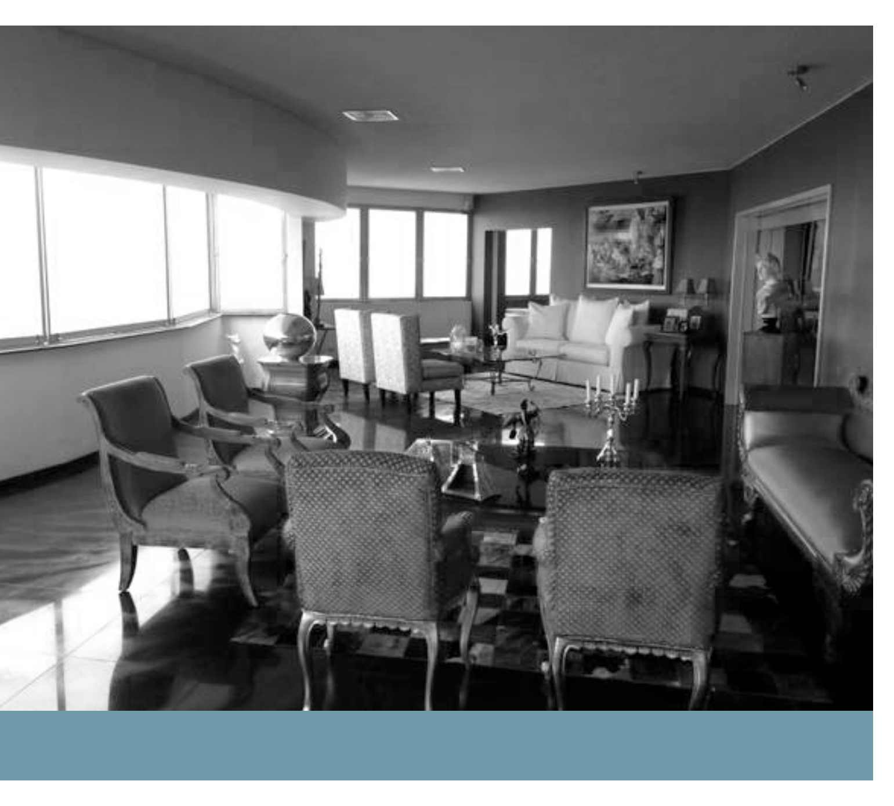
Unfortunately, the babys father, Sanjiv Kumar was an unemployed painter and couldnt pay the amount on time.

We begged and pleaded with them to keep our child alive in the incubator and that we would pay them the money later, a distraught Kumar said. But they refused.

When the family was unable to pay, nurses took away the saline drip, while officials removed the baby from the incubator, causing her to die three hours later.

They killed my child, the babys mother Sunita Kumar said. I pleaded that my husband needed time to arrange the money, but to no avail and the baby was taken out of the incubator.

Aside from the fact we're changing the way people experience life at work and supporting organizations achieve their goals through our cool products and services, we are committed to doing the right things right! We believe gratitude and grace go hand in hand, and that how we engage with and support each other should matter as much as the care we extend to our amazing clients. We believe we personally have the opportunity to influence the experience we have in the workplace and can make a difference through what we do and how we do it. Your ability to model our core values and attributes will be at the center of your success!



Every transfer of Bitcoin as Nakamoto designed the system offers the possibility to track the economic activity and associations of anyone using Bitcoin -- as Barber et al. note, all Bitcoins are public knowledge. As a surveillance apparatus, it is difficult to imagine a more perfect way to monitor how citizens behave than to link transaction histories to the currency itself. Even peer-to-peer exchanges that would be beyond oversight with a traditional currency become subject to precise scrutiny. In attempting to remove the third party (bank/government) from the exchange process, Bitcoin instead enshrines the authority it attempts to displace.

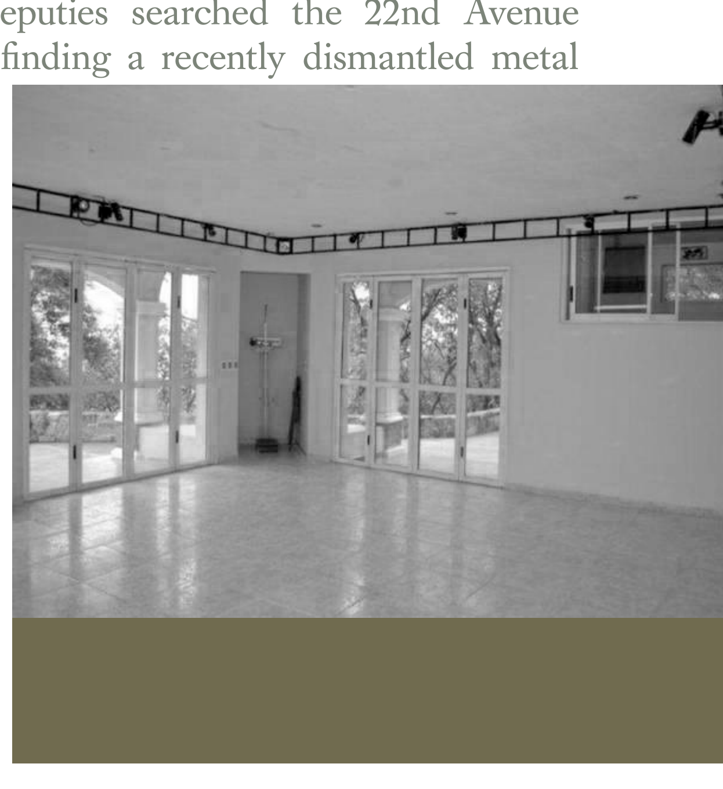
Two growhouse busts this week at empty Golden Gate Estates homes turned up 176 marijuana plants, Collier sheriff's deputies said Thursday.

Deputies executing search warrants found the plants behind the homes located at 2770 Desoto Blvd. S. and 4019 22nd Ave. N.E. The Sheriff's Office, which values each plant at $3,000, said the plants had a combined street value estimated at $528,000.

Deputies searched the Desoto Boulevard South home Tuesday, finding 95 plants and growing equipment valued at about $30,000 in a large metal structure behind the home.



One day later, deputies searched the 22nd Avenue Northeast home, finding a recently dismantled metal structure. Behind the structure, investigators found a large pile of dirt used to cover 81 marijuana plants. Inside the home, two firearms and a sophisticated surveillance system were found.

Nobody was found at either home, and sheriff's officials didn't indicate any arrests had been made.

Only authorized personnel will reside or visit in the dormitory. No room assignment change is permitted without prior approval of the Academy staff. Requests for changes in room assignment must be submitted in writing to the Class Training Coordinator. The Training Supervisor will meet with the facilities management team to determine feasibility of the move. Posting of items on any walls, windows, or doors is prohibited. Refrigerators, ice chests, or other cooling/heating devices are not permitted within dormitory rooms (only agency-approved irons and ironing boards are allowed within dorm rooms). The only exception to this is for those individuals that require a small refrigeration unit to maintain proper temperature of medications. This type of device can be checked out from Dorm Reception. Shoes and belts must be polished outside the building, off the sidewalks, or in marked and designated shoeshine areas (2nd and 3rd floor storage rooms designated for this purpose). Due to fire code regulations, the use of electrical appliances such as coffeepots or microwaves is strictly prohibited. Residents are required to keep housing areas clean at all times. Clothing and personal items will be arranged neatly in closets or cabinets and beds shall be made. Staff will be conducting random and scheduled room inspections. DPSST staff may only conduct more intrusive searches of students property with approval of the Director of Training. These searches may be conducted pursuant to, or as part of, aninvestigation into any Rules of Conduct violation. Whenever possible, the Training Supervisor, and the student(s) will be present while the search is conducted. Any investigation involving criminal allegations will be referred to the Oregon State Police or local law enforcement. Students are required to report, in writing, any damaged or missing items. Reports will include the item, damage, or reason for malfunction, if known. Reports are to be turned in no later than the training day following the day the damage or missing items are noted. Students responsible for damage will be required to pay for the repair or replacement of the item. The students agency will be billed, and the Academy completion certificate will be withheld, if timely payment is not received. Visitors are permitted in the common areas only until 2100 hours. Visitors are not permitted in any of the dormitory living units. Visitors will be required to sign in at the Dormitory reception desk where a guest book is maintained at the check-in counter, and provide identity upon request of security or other Academy staff. Furthermore, students receiving visitors must remain with their guests at all times. Visitors are not allowed any place on Academy grounds unescorted. Students of the opposite sex are strictly prohibited from entering or remaining in the room of another student or staff person, regardless of invitation by the resident or purpose other than a documented bona fide emergency of a life threatening nature. Sexual conduct in public areas, parking lots and or vehicles on the DPSST premises or facilities is prohibited. Alcohol is not permitted anywhere within the dormitory or on DPSST premises. Controlled substances (prescription medications) are permitted only when kept in the original container from the pharmacy. Smoking is prohibited in the dormitory. Smoking is permitted outside the dormitory in designated areas only. Students are required to use the available ash can to extinguish and dispose of cigarettes or other tobacco products. Effective January 1, 2013, DPSST will be a tobacco free campus. Under no circumstances are firearms/ammunition permitted on the second and third floors of the dormitory or on the first floor wings where living units are located. Firearms and ammunition must be stored in locked gun cabinets provided by the DPSST for that purpose. Under certain pre-approved circumstances, staff, instructors, or visiting staff may be armed within the dormitory reception, hallways, and student lounge areas. Violation of this policy will be considered a major violation that may result in removal from the dormitory and termination from the Academy. This policy applies to students, instructors and visiting staff. DPSST staff will conduct an exit inspection of each room on the final day of training. Students must be cleared out of assigned rooms, with keys turned into the dormitory checkin desk by the time designated by the Class Training Coordinator on the day of graduation. Individual students and/or their agency will be responsible for missing items or damage beyond normal wear and tear. All students of a room will share financial responsibility if investigation cannot attribute the responsibility to a specific individual or individuals. Unreported damage or items discovered as missing are the responsibility of room students. Students shall use the telephones located in the hallway near the elevators/stairs for emergency calls (to 9-1-1) or local calls only. Students shall only use these phones for a maximum of fifteen (15) minutes on any single call. Courtesy and fairness are expected from each student regarding the use of phones. Students are responsible for any damage to the area surrounding the telephones, including shoe/scuff marks left on the wall by students propping or resting their feet. Students are expected to pick up after themselves and maintain a clean area, regardless of their location in the building. Tributes to Precarious Vitality strikes up a dialogue between 17th-century artworks and contemporary pieces in an attempt to extricate the concept of the Baroque from its conventional stylistic pigeonhole, moving away from clichs such as pomp, rich ornament, or gold and instead focusing on the Baroque as a “tribute to precarious vitality”: the riotous yet uncertain nature of existence.

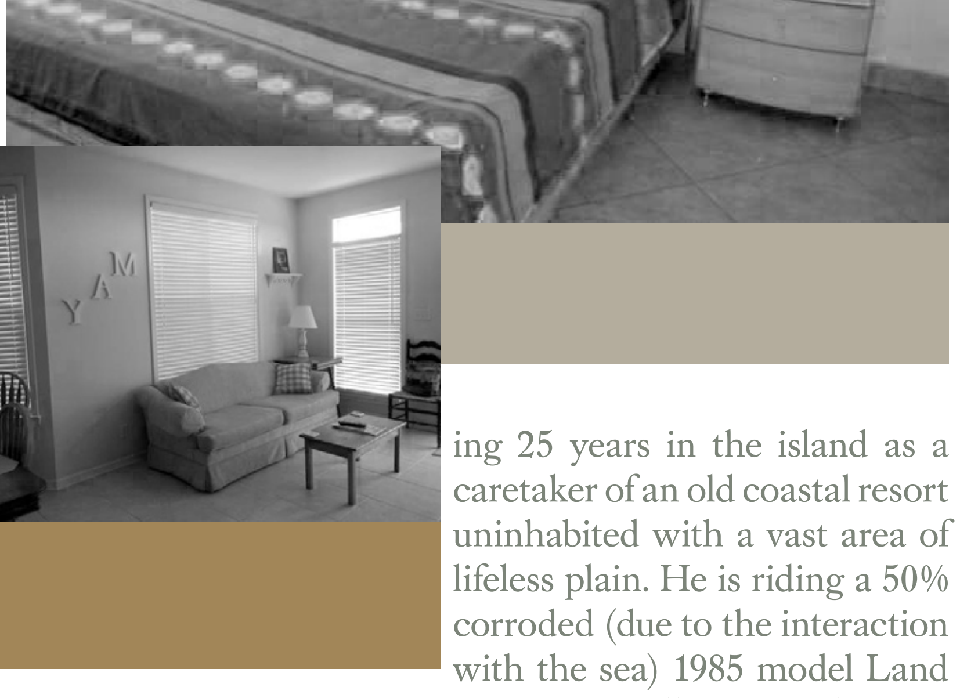
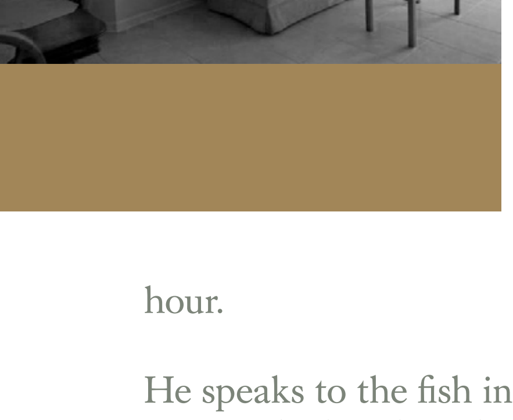
Kunhi Muhammed and his life in the island surprised me a lot. From the Indian state of Kerala, he is completing 25 years in the island as a caretaker of an old coastal resort uninhabited with a vast area of lifeless plain. He is riding a 50% corroded (due to the interaction with the sea) 1985 model Land Cruiser. It still runs 50 km per hour.





He speaks to the fish in the sea and to gazelles that appear in the beach at dawn. A Saudi version of Robinson Crusoe.

Science and Technology serves museums in a variety of ways: from the technical examination of artist’s methods and materials; to informing decisions on safer ways to exhibit, store, and transport art; and finally to investigating new conservation methods that are safer or more effective. All museums benefit from the application of science in some way. Modern and contemporary art poses specific challenges for two different reasons: the media the artists can draw from is more varied than any other period in history and the works are all young in age. These aspects can make a conservator’s job easy or extremely difficult. They can also help improve our understanding of how works by Old Masters may have changed. Since conservators of contemporary art are often the first to treat an object it is particularly important treatments are always carefully considered and well informed and science can play a major role in that regard.

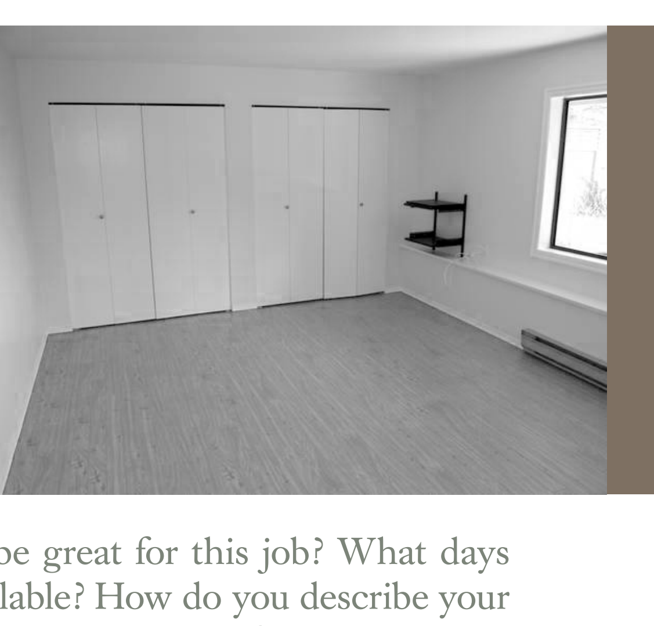
A knife-wielding bandit slashed a young Hamilton soldier’s hand as the trooper tried to hold onto $4,500 cash intended for Canadian military families.

Hamilton police said the soldier was robbed as he left his home on Erie Avenue at 10 a.m. Thursday.

The 22-year-old was confronted by a “scraggly-looking” man who asked for money, then pulled a knife. In the fight that followed, the soldier was cut and dropped a pouch containing the cash, which the bandit grabbed.

“The suspect looked inside and then ran off,” said police Sergeant Terri-Lynn Collings.

The victim who was wearing a Help For Heroes t-shirt was said to have been attacked by two men armed with knives, including a machete and a meat cleaver.



What questions do you have about the job? Why would you be great for this job? What days and hours you are available? How do you describe your attention to detail? What is a “sense of urgency” mean to you? Why did you leave your last two jobs? How long you would see yourself at this job? What type of car do you drive? Optional question: Tell us about your favorite pet; hobby; and food-group!

Gentlemen: Has there been any indication from your readers of the scarcitty of butterflies this year? In this area which is usually quite prolific, I have seen practically none with the exception of a few flights of Fritillaries. Since March I have seen but one example of an Apantesis virgo, no Catocala caras at all, veryfew Swallowtails, one Queloia, no Peacock’s Eyes, no Hipposcatics, and not even a sinclge Red Admiral in my garden, which last summer was teeming with butterflies. I wonder if this scarcity is widespread, and if so, what is the cause of it? M. Wasbourn

We stand helpless before the corporate onslaught. There is no way to vote against corporate power. Citizens have no way to bring about the prosecution of Wall Street bankers and financiers for fraud, military and intelligence officials for torture and war crimes, or security and surveillance officers for human rights abuses. The Federal Reserve is reduced to printing money for banks and financiers and lending it to them at almost zero percent interest; corporate officers then lend it to us at usurious rates as high as 30 percent. I do not know what to call this system. It is certainly not capitalism. Extortion might be a better word. The fossil fuel industry, meanwhile, relentlessly trashes the ecosystem for profit. The melting of 40 percent of the summer Arctic sea ice is, to corporations, a business opportunity. Companies rush to the Arctic and extract the last vestiges of oil, natural gas, minerals and fish stocks, indifferent to the death pangs of the planet.

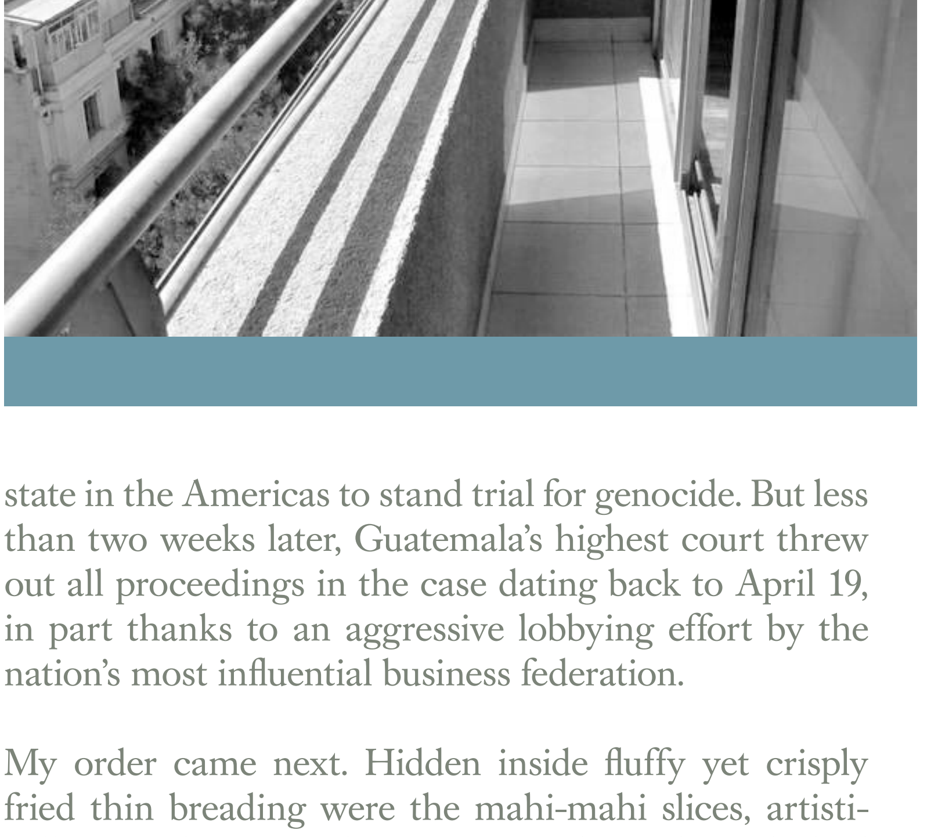
On Monday, Guatemala’s Constitutional Court overturned the conviction of former dictator Efran Ros Montt, an army general who ruled as de facto president from 1982 to 1983. On May 10, Ros Montt, 86, was found guilty by a three-panel tribunal on charges of genocide and crimes against humanity, and sentenced to 80 years in the slammer; he is the first former head of state in the Americas to stand trial for genocide. But less than two weeks later, Guatemala’s highest court threw out all proceedings in the case dating back to April 19, in part thanks to an aggressive lobbying effort by the nation’s most influential business federation.



My order came next. Hidden inside fluffy yet crisply fried thin breading were the mahi-mahi slices, artistically served. Yet another surprise! The mahi-mahi had sweet, mildly pronounced flavors that were further enhanced when dipped into white sauce, soy sauce or sweet and sour sauce. The mahi-mahi was served with strips of fried locally produced sweet potatoes, lemon and cucumber slices.

When [art] becomes the object of academic disciplines as it is today, discourse can become a site of struggle among the factions and interest groups that compete for the cultural authority to speak about [art]. The expert critical and technical languages that these groups invent can foster a social bond among those who share them, but they can also alienate and exclude outsiders. Korsyn (2003:6)

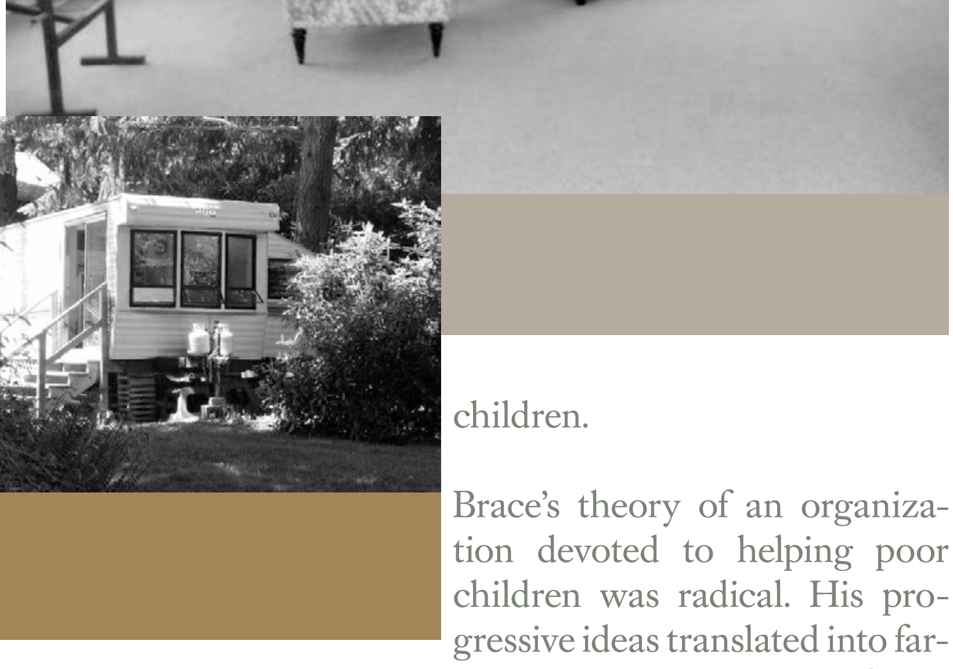
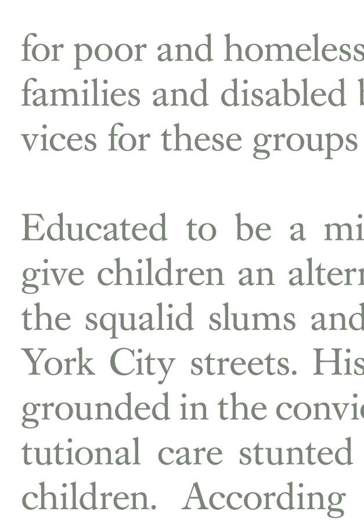
The Children’s Aid Society was founded in 1853 by Charles Loring Brace and a group of social reformers at a time when orphan asylums and almshouses were the only “social services” available for poor and homeless children.





Brace’s theory of an organization devoted to helping poor children was radical. His progressive ideas translated into far-reaching services and reforms for poor and homeless children, working women, needy families and disabled boys and girls at a time when services for these groups were few and far between.

Educated to be a minister, Brace was determined to give children an alternative to life in the squalid slums and teeming New York City streets. His theories were grounded in the conviction that institutional care stunted and destroyed children. According to Brace, the answers to transforming New York’s orphans and street children into self-reliant members of society were gainful work, education, and a wholesome family atmosphere.

Charles Loring Brace’s work transformed the face of social services and social reforms in New York City and across the nation. His imprint his legacy has benefited millions and millions of children. Of course, much has changed since his time, including the concepts of children’s rights and parental responsibility, but Brace’s imprint remains an enduring one.

The Orphan Train Movement

Between 1853 and 1929, more than 150,000 abandoned, abused and orphaned children were rescued from the streets and slums of New York City and taken by train to start new lives with families on farms across the country. The emphasis was on giving these needy children a family life.

Honduras is a country for dreamers, so living in Honduras can mean living out your dreams. Honduras is a place where Caribbean breezes lift ocean air through your windows, where the sunlight glints off the water at odd angles, and where the sound of waves lapping at the shore is just hypnotic enough to spirit away the dissonance of the 21st century.

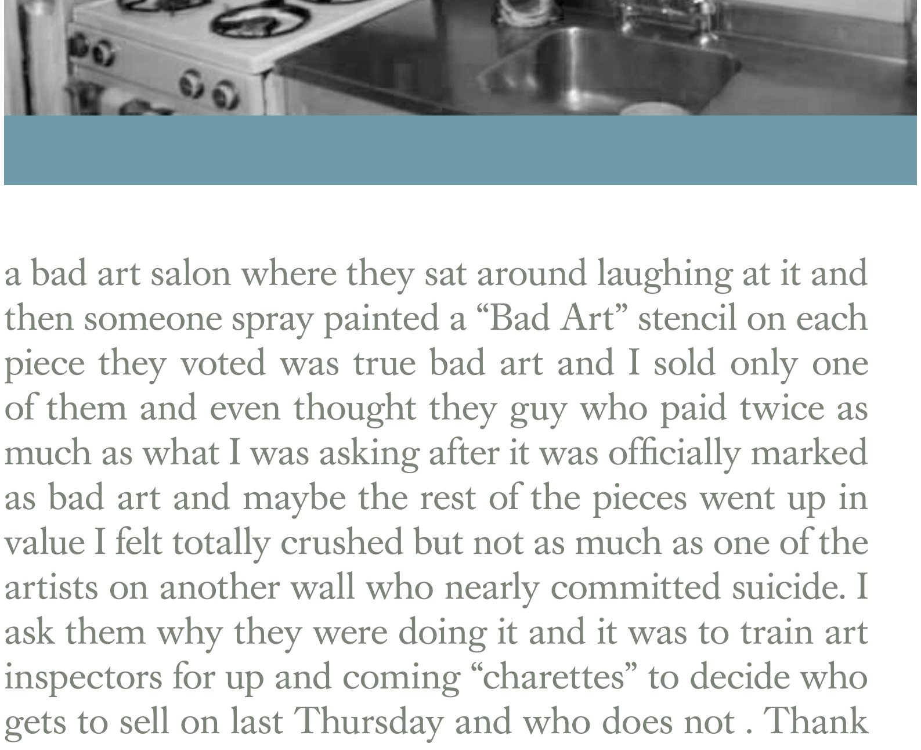
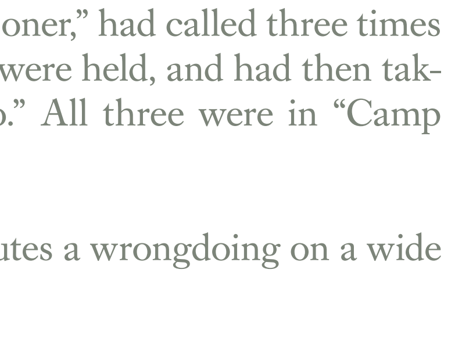
Warning do not go to that caf with your art work. I brought my portfolio and they reluctantly approved my selling there and then I got all days of the month except for last Thursday to sell after paying the $200 for one of the 6 wall space areas available and then they used my art work as fodder for a bad art salon where they sat around laughing at it and then someone spray painted a “Bad Art” stencil on each piece they voted was true bad art and I sold only one of them and even thought they guy who paid twice as much as what I was asking after it was officially marked as bad art and maybe the rest of the pieces went up in value I felt totally crushed but not as much as one of the artists on another wall who nearly committed suicide. I ask them why they were doing it and it was to train art inspectors for up and coming “charettes” to decide who gets to sell on last Thursday and who does not . Thank you city commissioners for the exposure.





Hickman and Davila became fascinated by the compound --- known to the soldiers as “Camp No” (as in, “No, it doesn’t exist”) --- and Hickman was on duty in a tower on the prison’s perimeter on the night the three men died, when he noticed that “a white van, dubbed the ‘paddy wagon,’ that Navy guards used to transport heavily manacled prisoners, one at a time, into and out of Camp Delta, [which] had no rear windows and contained a dog cage large enough to hold a single prisoner,” had called three times at Camp 1, where the men were held, and had then taken them out to “Camp No.” All three were in “Camp No” by 8 pm.

Edward Snowden, an American former contractor for the National Security Agency (NSA), came forward as the whistle-blower in one of the biggest internal leaks in U.S. intelligence history now seeking asylum According to the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, Snowden would not be given preferential treatment if he were to apply for asylum in Hong Kong. He seems to have complete and total trust in the Hong Kong political and judiciary system: “Hong Kong has a strong tradition of free speech. People think China, Great Firewall ... but the people of Hong Kong have a long tradition of protesting on the streets, making their views known ... and I believe the Hong Kong government is actually independent in relation to a lot of other leading Western governments.”

From high above, one sees jugglers with fire torches performing in front of waiting cars at a red light. Whenever the light is about to turn green, the artists leave the street, but they immediately return once the lights are back to red, repeating their show. With each sequence two additional jugglers join the group. And finally, when eight of them are performing simultaneously, blocking the full width of the road, they simply continue juggling even though the lights have signalled go. In no time at all an infernal chorus of horns builds up.

Just had an invitation to visit Barney and Marie this Friday. They have a new dog, a pug of some kind. However, it ate Lefty, their old parrot. Apparently he flew down from his cage to the floor near the dog and that was the end of him.

Freedom is free time, time freed from labor, from bossed time for pay. But time entirely freed from labor, from bossed time for pay, from doing what another wants the way they want in exchange for the means to get the products and services one wants produced by the bossed time of others, that is unemployment, thrown in the street, living on the charity of one's family, one's mosque, or.....theft.

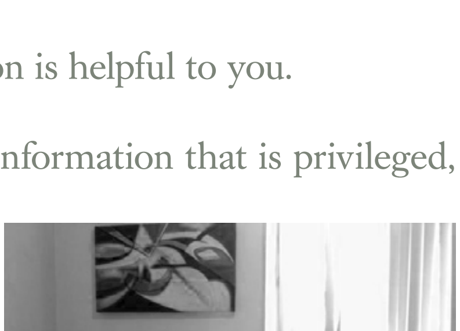
I am in receipt of your fax dated 10/7/13 which asked about recoverable assistance if you sign up for OHP on or after the age of 55. Federal law generally dictates what is recoverable assistance. There are Oregon Administrative Rules which state what is recoverable assistance for Oregon. Generally, assistance for Medicaid (and OHP) is recoverable for 1) a person who is age 55 or older or 2) who has been permanently institutionalized (such as lived in a nursing facility and received assistance) for at least 6 months prior to a person's death. Also, 3) if the recipient received Medicaid cash benefits (such as those for special needs payments or General Assistance), these benefits are recoverable regardless of the age at which they were received.

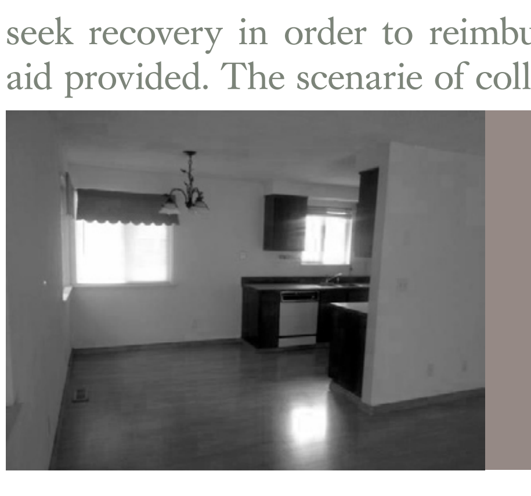
Finally, if there is a claim in the estate of a deceased Medicaid recipient, the personal representative or the affiant of the estate can request an assistance summary which will give specific information about the charges for recoverable assistance.

I hope that this information is helpful to you.

This e-mail may contain information that is privileged, confidential, or otherwise exempt from disclosure under applicable law. If you are not the addressee or it appears from the context or otherwise that you have received this e-mail in error, please advise me immediately by reply e-mail, keep the contents confidential, and immediately delete the message and any attachments from your system.



Yes, this is the case. We have many elderly (or over 55) clients who cannot afford the cost of nursing home, assisted living, or other types of care and who have to spend down all of their resources in order to get the care that they need (and deserve). Some have homes, which, if not sold during the client's lifetime, become estate assets after the client dies. These estate assets are ones from which the State can seek recovery in order to reimburse it for the Medicaid provided. The scenarie of collecting from estates of deceased recipients is not an unusual one, then, whether it is for those clients who receive long-term care or for those who receive OHP assistance.



The recovery, you should know, is only on estate assets (or those assets which meet the State's expanded definition of an estate asset). If the recoverable Medicaid paid is valued at $200,000 and the amount of the estate is $100,000, then Medicaid can only collect what is in the estate - the $100,000 at most. So, not all of the bill is paid - in many instances. In fact most Medicaid recipients only have about $2000 in resources because that is the limit allowed in order to receive Medicaid.

The real question to ask is if you really want to give up the chance to have some kind of heatlh care. I often tell people that their family want to see them healthy rather than ill - even if it means lower inheritances, etc. It is certainly something that I would tell my family - although quite frankly I don't have a lot of assets.. We have an opportunity now to provide health care to a wide range of people that often had to be told to wait for their name to come up on a list or even worse yet who were told that despite their relatively low income, they still didn't qualify for some kind of assistance. Our society has determined that it won't provide some health care "for free." Maybe one of these days that will change, but in the meantime, it has at least determined that no one should have to go without health care. That is a huge step in and of itself.

The degree of surveillance will simply escalate along with the technology -- what's unjust is the access to the information: the proverbial level-playing-field was the one big "underlying" promise of the Internet... We all should be able to learn where the rogue-cops, corrupt CEOs, gangsters, embedded politicos live, what they buy, how much they're paid and by-whom, etc. Years ago I remember a story about a small town in France(?) that mounted accessible-web-cams in most public areas (including police stations) so that any citizen at any time could monitor and report on transgressions to the common-good, with the result that police were hardly needed as there was little crime and the community felt much safer/responsible. Is Obama Bin Laden still playing cards?

The Fairbanks North Star Borough (FNSB) is soliciting proposals for two separate pieces of art for the new North Pole Library. Site #1 for art will be in the main entrance lobby, a clerestory area with windows on four sides, and Site #2 for art will be in the fireplace area in the Library, where there is a vaulted ceiling and the exterior wall is all windows with a fireplace. The definition of clerestory is an upper portion of a wall containing windows for supplying natural light to a building. Artists can submit proposals for either area or both. Proposals for each site will be evaluated and awarded separately.

Photomediations Machine adopts a process-based approach to image making by tracing the technological, biological, cultural, social and political flows of mediation that produce photographic objects. Showcasing theoretical and practical work at the intersections of art and mainstream practices, Photomediations Machine is both an archive of mediations past and a site of production of media as-we-do-not-know-them-yet. A new server failed earlier in the day. It wasn't in use yet except as a backup but because file systems were NFS mounted from it, anytime a customer used something that referenced those file systems such as 'df' or 'quota', the process hung waiting for it to respond eventually cluttering up memory on shellx.

To stop this, I had to unmount the file systems from that machine but I needed to reboot the file server which has users home directories on it in order to do that. I should have used the force option because otherwise the reboot also is going to wait for the machine that is dead to respond and I forgot to do that.

The whole mess necessitated a trip to the co-location facility to restore, and while I was there I fixed some start-up script errors and applied some updates which required a few more reboots to apply and test.

On another note, if anyone is considering content management systems like Drupal, Concrete5, Joomla, or WordPress, they will all run fine on our platform. If you need help getting them running please e-mail support and I'll be glad to help you get them setup.

A forensic examination of two external drives located in the crawl space above Miller's bathroom revealed the presence of several thousand images and more than 1,100 videos of child pornography. The images dated back to 2002. The children in the videos ranged in age from toddler to teenager. The file paths of some of the images indicated that they were originally downloaded via a peer-to-peer file sharing network. Images and videos of child pornography were also located on a laptop computer seized from the basement of the residence. Additional images of child pornography were recovered from several CDs seized from the storage facility rented by Miller.

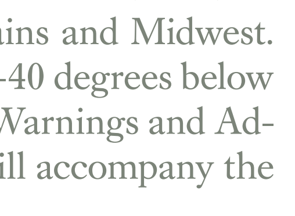
Braving heavy rains, roughly one thousand Hawaiians traveled to the town of Hale`iwa on the North Shore of Oahu Sunday to take part in a march against Monsanto, adding their support to the growing "tsunami" against genetically modified (GM) crops.

The Aloha Aina (or "Love of the Land") March, organized by a number of environmental and community groups, was called to celebrate some regional successes against the biotech industry and to raise awareness of the fight, calling on Hawaiian landowners to join the movement and "evict Monsanto."

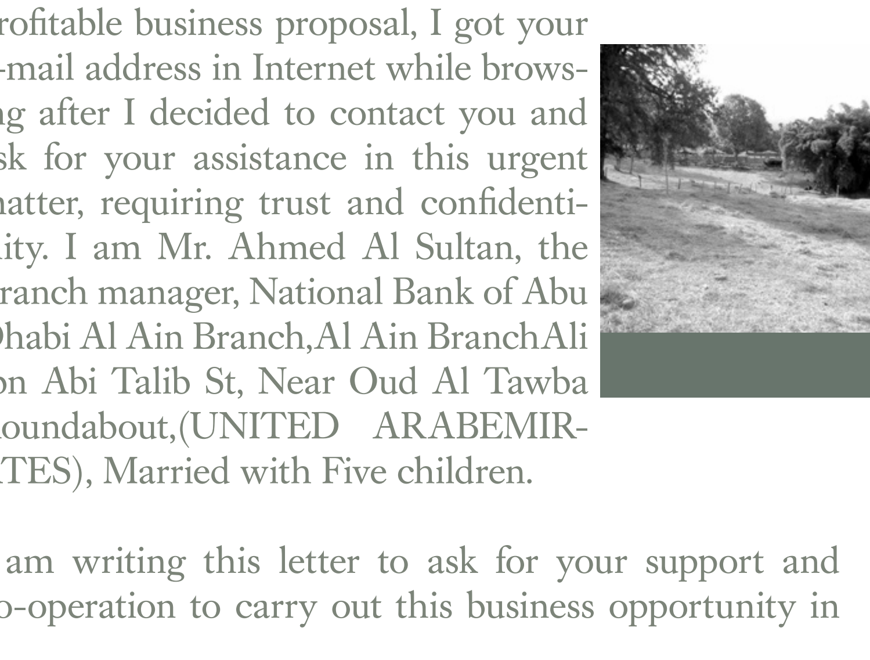
Arctic air has settled into the northern U.S. along with gusty winds and snow showers. The result will be bitter cold and dangerous wind chills for parts of the Plains and Midwest. Wind chill values are forecast to be 20-40 degrees below zero in this region where Wind Chill Warnings and Advisories are in effect. Snow showers will accompany the cold temperatures.

Good day Friend,

I am pleased to get across to you for a very urgent and profitable business proposal, I got your e-mail address in Internet while browsing after I decided to contact you and ask for your assistance in this urgent matter, requiring trust and confidentiality. I am Mr. Ahmed Al Sultan, the Branch manager, National Bank of Abu Dhabi Al Ain Branch,Al Ain BranchAli Ibn Abi Talib St, Near Oud Al Tawba Roundabout,(UNITED ARABEMIRATES), Married with Five children.

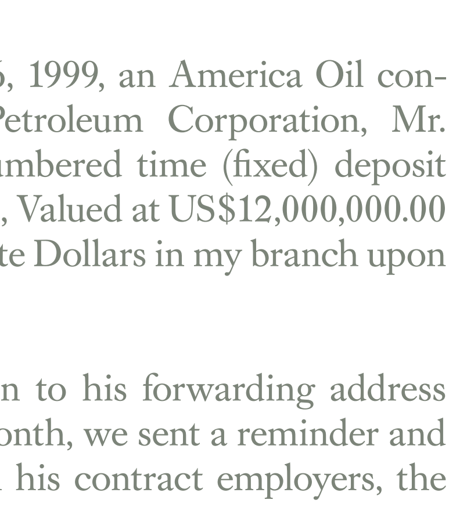


I am writing this letter to ask for your support and co-operation to carry out this business opportunity in my department, On June 6, 1999, an America Oil consultant/contractor with Petroleum Corporation, Mr. Thomas Stone, made a numbered time (fixed) deposit for twelve calendar months, Valued at US$12,000,000.00 (Twelve Million United State Dollars in my branch upon maturity.



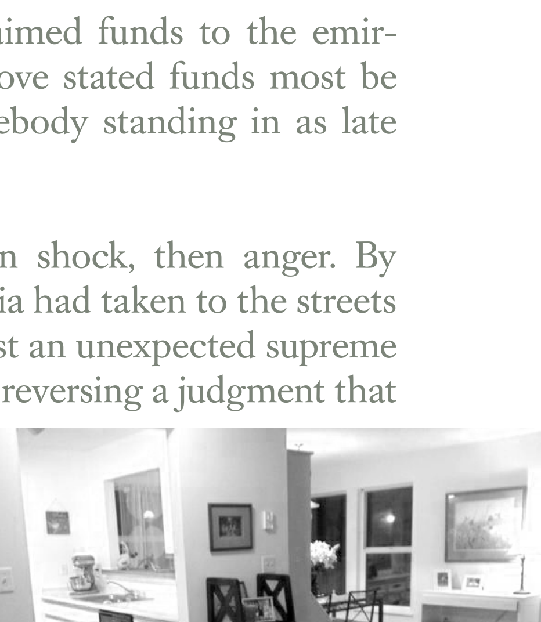
I sent a routine notification to his forwarding address but got no reply. After a month, we sent a reminder and finally we discovered from his contract employers, the Petroleum Corporation that Mr. Thomas Stone, died in the plane crash On October 31, 1999, (an Egyptian Boeing 767 Flight 990) with other passengers on board.

Most asttorning of my discovery was that, all records bear no next of kin, meaning no member of Mr. Thomas Stone, family knows about the deposit therefore, no member of his family will ever come forward to claim the money, In order for the bank not to transfer the said sum of Twelve Million United State Dollars ($12,000,000.00) as unclaimed funds to the emirates treasury account, the above stated funds most be claimed immediately by somebody standing in as late Mr. Thomas Stone.



First there was surprise, then shock, then anger. By nightfall thousands across India had taken to the streets in spontaneous protests against an unexpected supreme court decision on Wednesday reversing a judgment that had decriminalised gay sex in the country.

Activists had expected the court simply to rubber-stamp the original 2009 ruling. Now India will rejoin the more than 70 countries -- mainly in Africa, the Middle East and south Asia -- where homosexual relations are illegal.



The reinstatement of a 153-year-old law passed under British rule and based on 16th-century English legislation means "carnal intercourse" between consenting adults of the same sex is once more defined as "unnatural" and punishable by up to 10 years in jail.

Waving multicoloured flags and wearing black bandanas, the crowd of protesters that gathered at the Jantar Mantar, a favourite point for demonstrations in the Indian capital, Delhi, was full of young men and women.

Some think of neurons firing as digital information, with the potential for firing as analog information. The potential, itself, can be considered as a sequence of digital events. The process could be likened to a bicycle pump pumping up a balloon until it bursts! Each compression of the pump and the subsequent burst can be considered a digital event! She patted her frock lock. O wayward! Her feet bicycled the air. Her feet occasioned a somatic event, a stolen bicycle and its somatic response. With the new guns, he fires away. Perfect trajectories are in Pusan, dust. Policeman Dick is riding by, a bicycle beauty,the body leaning into the dust. Somatic!. Two bicycle wheels hold the frame up. Earlier he said to her, "Someone always gets hurt in a stickup." "You like it," Gibbs said, the thing works like a bicycle, keeps going round arcs towards the curb, beneath the trees where girls are dangerous. He walked home. Someday he'll have a bicycle. It is easiest to ride in the dark. There are not many animals left here, a few snakes and you can avoid them by leaning. “The frame’s held up by the wheels,” said Policeman Dick. He patted her frock lock. O wayward! Her feet bicycled the air. Her feet lifted him on the frame and the rest of her fucked him. She said, “Someone always gets hurt in a stickup. You like it.” She said that it worked like a charm, she kept going everywhere, just like a child. “What a wonderful adventure I’m having!” she said, “just like a little girl!” She walked home thinking someday she’d have a bicycle. It’s easy to ride, even in the dark and the animals are terrific!

The grey wool suit that Gene Kelly wore in 1952 in the centerpiece number of the beloved MGM Hollywood musical “Singin’ in the Rain” arguably one of the most famous musical numbers in all film history realized more than $106,250 as part of Heritage Auctions Entertainment & Music event on Thursday, more than five times the pre-auction estimate. “This is such a wonderful and historically important costume,” said Margaret Barrett, Director of Entertainment & Music Auctions at Heritage. “Collectors and fans recognized that, and they came after it accordingly. It’s a treasure of Hollywood history and of our American popular culture.” The suit was purchased by Planet Hollywood International, which plans to display the suit at one of its properties, though it has not yet decided which one.

A U.S. drone strike targeted a wedding convoy in Yemen’s al-Baitha province, killing 14 and injuring 22. Imagine gathering for a quaint wedding in Northern Virginia on a picturesque farm, all of your loved ones gathered in celebration, only to have your wedding party slaughtered by a drone from Pakistan. We react with hysteria when a lone gunman starts shooting in a public place. Imagine our vitriolic response to repeated attacks on weddings by foreign enemies.

Night Market: A bustling tent market just south east of intersetion of Yan’an Road / Pinghai Road (past Huansha Rd, along Renhe Rd) every night. Here you can find clothing of various (and interesting) Chinese designs, Mao memorabilia, jewelery, paper fans, pipes, lighters, eletronic accessories, luggage, handicrafts and other items that most Chinese cities have. Pirated DVDs and counterfeit handbags are for sale as well. You can also find a lot of those silk-screen printed paintings/ embroidery things that the silk market also has. Bargain very hard; many stalls sell the same merchandise, so be prepared to walk away (although this traveler found it almost impossible to get cheaper prices). Be careful buying “antiques” because they are probably new, and pearls. Often the pearl culturing process has been very short, and in fact the “pearl” is a plastic marble with only the thinnest of cultured skin.

In the past year, supporters of immigration rights have expressed growing frustration with the president, who has overseen the deportation of nearly 2 million immigrants during his time in office, far more than any other president in history. With a deeply divided Congress now nearing its holiday recess, it seems nearly certain that another year will pass with lawmakers failing to make any headway on immigration reform. Eight demonstrators tied themselves to one another wrist-to-wrist in the falling snow Tuesday morning, and lay down across the road in a human chain, blocking access to an immigration detention center in Elizabeth, N.J. Detention officers on their way to work waited in a line of cars stretching down the street.

For nearly a minute, the steady blast of a car horn drowned out the sound of the protesters’ chants. By the time the police arrested the protesters about a half-hour later, snow had begun to pile up on their bodies, hiding the slogans on the T-shirts they had pulled on over their sweaters.

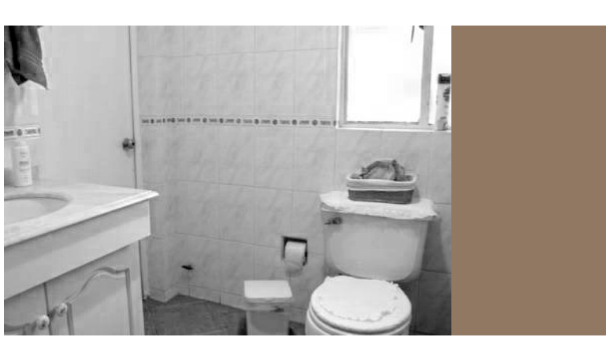
For now though Japan is already seeing foul weather with winds up to 115 kph reported in Hokkaido today and 65cm of snow accumalation in parts of the Tohoku region. The good news is the larger population of Japan on the Pacific coastline is missing out on the bulk of this heavy snowfall. The snow will also start to taper off in Japan through monday morning caused by a change in the winds which will be shutting off the sea effect snow machine along the Sea of Japan coastline. This change in winds though is a pre-cursor to the next storm to come out of southern China which has already been bringing heavy rainfall to region. Even in Hong Kong showers and isolated thunderstorms have been reported today. This moisture inflow across the city and in to southern china is combining with cool air to the north and a deep upper level trough from the west to produce the potent storm we will be seeing through the first half of the coming work week.

China and Taiwan will continue to see showers through much of Monday as the storm develops and heads east.

My name is MR.RAYMOND CHUKWUEUGO MGBEOKWERE, HEAD, LEGAL SERVICES with First Bank of Nigerian Plc based in Nigeria. I am writing in respect of a foreign customer of our Financial Firm with Deposit Code: XXMD-908-14-255-114 whose name is Eng. Ahmed Mohd Elshami, an Egyptian citizen and a Federal Contractor with the Federal Governments of Nigeria and Egypt.

My client lost his life along with his wife, daughter and several others in a tragic air accident in Abuja - Nigeria. Since the death of this customer, I personally have watched with keen interest to see the next of kin but all has proved abortive as no one has come to claim his funds of US$25,500,000.00 (Twenty Five Million, Five Hundred Thousand US Dollars) which has been with our branch for a very long time.



On this note, I decided to seek for whom his name shall be used as the Next of Kin as no one has come up as his next of kin. In view of this I got your contact through a trade journal on my quest for a foreign business partner, who will be presented to the financial firm as the next of kin to the deceased client to enable them release the fund in your favour.

For your assistant I am willing to give you 40% of the total amount, 10% to cover all expenses and 50% for me and my family. Upon the receipt of your response, I will send you by fax the letter of application which you will type sign and send to the First Bank of Nigerian Plc to enable us start the processing of this claim. I will not fail to bring to your notice that this business is problem free process and shall be carried out under legitimate procedure without breaching any of the International Law, in other words, you should not entertain any fear as all modality for the smooth and easy transfer of this fund has been finalized.

Please take note my wife is the only one that I have discussed this business with and we both agreed to do it with you, I will give you more explanation on this transaction, feel free to send email to me.

When you receive this letter, kindly send me an email for more explanation, please include your private Tel/ Fax numbers in your correspondence to facilitate communication.

The idea of “Toxicity”, theoretically and practically, entrenches itself into the standard phenomenological understanding of the co-constitution of society and technology. The cultural deciphering of toxicity reconstructs not only the current environmental situation, but also socio-political contexts by looking into modes of contemporary cultural and technological production, the extraction of minerals,toxic waste, local and international policies, economy, finances, community-based responses and the thematics of production, consumption and disposal. The project considers the changes that Toxicity causes in the cultural, socio-political, psychological (in the sense of Guattari’s Planetary Psychopathology) and ecological landscape relating to art and technology by looking into Info-Pathologies and the methods and manners of the “infiltration” of technologies into facets of ordinary life, thereby challenging the inherited taxonomies. “Toxicity” also connects to biopolitical conflicts in the real and virtual worlds involving: energy control and the choice of fuel material and alternative energy sources; the thematic of entropy; the inheritance and programmability of life; the causes and consequences of environmental changes; the question of environmental sustainability; micro and macro ecology; GM products, life, death and appearance. The dualities of power and right, sovereignty and law, are inextricably bound to contemporary biopolitical discourses. In Foucault’s own words: “For capitalist society it is the biological that is important before everything else; the biological, the somatic, the corporeal. The body is a biopolitical reality, medicine is a biopolitical strategy.”

I spent an hour today unsuccessfully trying to find a transformer for an electronic gadget and then checked my BP: 186! (I think I told you that I’m considering the beginnings of a move to Mexico: now considering Punta Zicatela (but it may be too international: surfers -- certainly cheap: a really nice apartment with kitchen, pool, rooftop views for $300 if I stay for 6 months -- but the BP medications and my general health?, would be a concern and now I’d have to worry about fresh assaults here in my absence... but maybe “getting away” would help (I’d have to bring my BP testing kit:))

I’ve mostly been “under-attack” most of my life but these last few years under our fascist new landlord and terrorist hospital have been the worst; so I probably assume that someone will inevitably also contest my “free lunch.” Learned today that one of my tablemates at lunch (Chicken Provence, Red Potatoes, Peas & Carrots, Tossed Salad w/Italian Dressing, Holiday Cookie-- which I gave to someone else), is an escaped refugee from Iraq (left with the clothes on his back etc.) -- so odd that they would seek refuge in the country of their actual oppression...

It’s increasingly/surprisingly very different on this side of the river (Willamette runs through Portland).

I’m still just amazed that you/anyone has shows and earns money. Love to see ‘em when done.

My housemate’s aunt (a retired nurse) has a titanium knee now: I guess it’s a common operation (that would still bankrupt most people) but I’d be scared to death to come anywhere near a hospital here.

Mild and freezing fog. Where do you buy your canvases?

Even farther south though in parts of western Japan 15-25cm is expected. Already in Gifu prefecture up to 40cm has been seen in the past 24hrs.

This same system has continued to trigger gusty winds as well. The interaction with the high out of Mongolia trying to push south and the low over Japan has generated a strong northwesterly gradient which has produced winds up to 100kph along coastal areas. This of course will create white out Conditions for those being impacted by the heavy snowfall. Not to mention wind chill will be hazardous for those outside for too long.

The high over Mongolia itself will continue to produce colder temperatures for much of North East China this coming week. A warming trend may start to develop over the weekend though as southerly winds start to flow across the region.

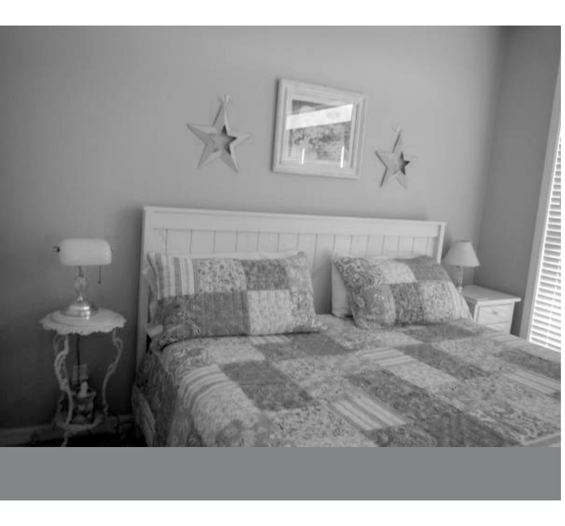
By Saturday scattered showers will be seen across much of Southern China as a new low starts to develop here. This will be a big weather maker not only for Southern China but also much of Japan through the early part of next week.

No entry visa is required for Kish. Foreign nationals need no entry visa at the authorised arrival and departure points in Kish Island. At Kish International Airport, the officials will take your photograph, fingerprints, and stamp your passport, allowing you to stay up to 14 days on the Island. Beware: if you are western, you may be sternly questioned as to the purpose of your visit. Make sure you bring all verification paperwork including hotel reservations with phone numbers, etc.

Upon arrival at Kish Airport, all female passengers will be immediately escorted to a room and very politely ordered to wear headscarves and long robes to cover their entire body. The clothing is available at the Airport, and passengers are expected to return them when leaving Kish. Female visitors may be detained for a period of time under the perception that they ‘might have difficulty finding their way around the island’. However, the staff in general are very polite, but speak little English.

If you would like to send us a submission for consideration following the instructions on our site we would be very happy to consider it. However, we would be grateful if you could stop sending us regular postings from your (12hr) project (interesting as it is) as our inbox can only cope with so much.

Kyle Tom Kamaiopili, 40, a resident of Pearl City, was sentenced in federal court on December 13, 2013, to a jail term of 13 years for five federal child pornography offenses. Kamaiopili previously pled guilty to four counts of distributing child pornography over the Internet and to one count of possessing approximately 4,300 still images and 125 videos of child pornography at his residence.



Four more innocents were released from America's Robben Island this month. Our offshore penal colony at Guantanamo Bay still holds 158 prisoners, 84 of whom have been cleared for release. The men sent home were never charged with a crime and were cleared four years ago.

The releases may give other prisoners a reason for hope if they heard the news. During hunger strikes last spring, some of which lasted over 80 days, the military raided the prison and put 100 strikers in solitary. No one knows how or what information passes to them.

At the time, when 100 of 166 prisoners were refusing food, the ACLU, the Center for Victims of Torture, Human Rights Watch and 17 other civic groups wrote to Pentagon boss Chuck Hagel that force feeding detainees was "cruel, inhuman and degrading" --- the treaty definition of torture --- and called for its immediate and permanent cessation. Hagel also got a letter from Jeremy Lazarus, the president of the American Medical Association, who charged that doctors helping force-feed prisoners against their will violated "core ethical values of the medical profession."

From February to June, the White House presided over the torturous force-feeding of at least 21 bound prisoners, a choking and gagging experience in which plastic tubes are shoved through the nostrils and down the throat while one is cinched to a restraint chair.

Hello Friend,

My name is Jenny Sui and I am from Chongqing City in China. I'm the mistress to former boss of Chongqing province named Bo Xilai who is now serving a life sentence in jail recently.

You will help me to move the funds 12,000,000 euros (12 million euros) from here to your country or anywhere of choice provided i can trust you. I will tell you the amount involved after i get your reply. how to meet after you received it. You will have forty percent while I will have sixty percent.

message To You From Mrs. Franka David

First of all, I seek your indulgence to solicit for your assistance concerning the content of my e-mail, although I am not comfortable discussing it through this manner, due to lots of unsolicited mails on the internet presently, but I have no other medium to do so right now since the situation of my health is deteriorating.

INTRODUCTION: I am Mrs. Franka David; I am married to late Mr.Edoh David of blessed memory, an Ivorienne citizen. Who was a reputable business magnet in United Kingdom for many years before He died of Heart Attack in the year 2011. We were married for Thirty-Five years with a child and our only son died in a ghastly motor accident last year 2012.My late husband deposited the sum of (=A35.800.000.00) Five Million Eight Hundred Thousand British Pounds Sterling with a Bank here in Cote d'ivoire.

Presently I am battling with both lung cancer and stroke and according to my doctor, my medical report quotes a very short life sperm due to my present health condition that I only have about 1-3 months to live, I do not know but only God can say. That is just my faith as a deteriorating cancer patient. But I pray to God to heal me so that I will be alive and see this work done as my late husband instructed me. Because my present health condition I have decided to donate the above mentioned funds to an individual Muslim, Christian or any faith, He or She will utilize these funds the way I am going to instruct herein.

If I ask my relatives or my husband relatives to use these funds for less privilege ones they will use it for their own personal interest. I don't want these funds to be used in such manner; I know we have not meet before but I want you to consider this matter as DIVINE MISSION!!! I want you and your family to always pray for me because the lord is my shepherd, my happiness is that I lived a worthy life and whoever that wants to serve the God must serve him in spirit and truth.

As soon as I receive your reply I shall give you more details regarding this great mission.

Remain blessed.
Mrs.Franka David

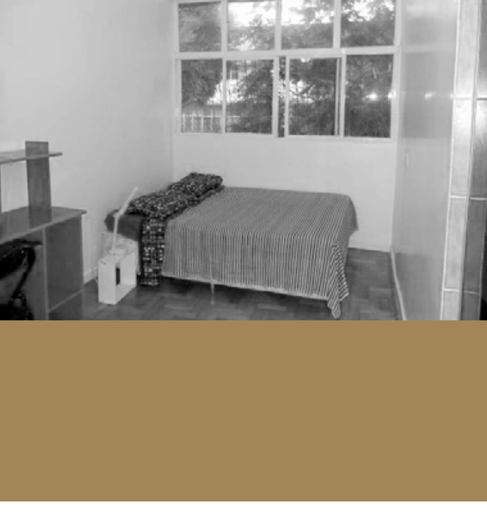
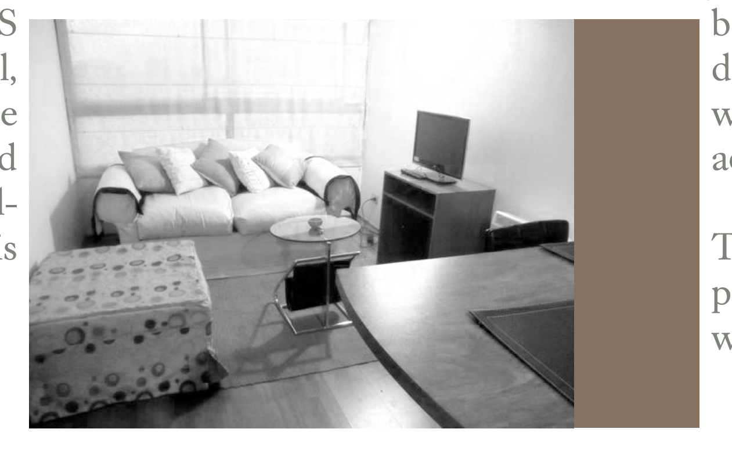
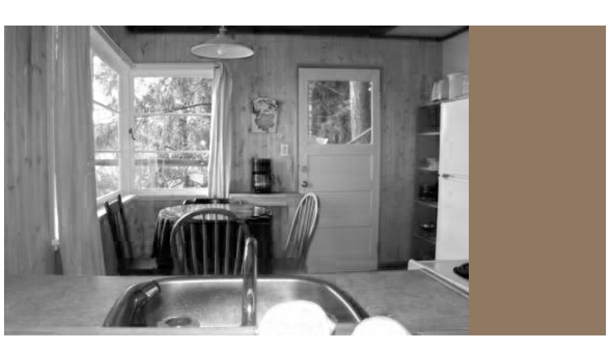
David L. Cathey of Poplar Bluff, Missouri, was sentenced to 30 years' imprisonment on two felony charges for producing child pornography. He appeared before U.S. District Judge John A. Ross in Cape Girardeau. Upon completion of that sentence, he will be placed on supervised release for the remainder of his life.



Previously with his plea, Cathey admitted that over a period of several years, he took photographic images of two minor females whom he caused to engage in sexually explicit conduct. Both children were less than 12 years old when Cathey started taking the photographs. Cathey stored some of the sexually explicit images on a CD. The images of the children were discovered when Cathey sold his computer and failed to remove the CD containing the photographs.



After years of being held at the US Naval Base in Cuba without trial, Ibrahim Idris, one of two Sudanese detainees released on Thursday, said US prison officials had "systematically tortured" him in the course of his 11-year imprisonment at Gitmo.



Idris, who has been described by US officials as mentally ill, delivered his comments in a news conference in Khartoum, just hours after returning home courtesy of a US military plane.

Appearing weak and speaking with apparent difficultly, Idris gave a brief account of his lengthy imprisonment at Gitmo.

"We have been subjected to meticulous, daily torture,"he said. "We were helpless, on an isolated island, surrounded by weapons."

He praised the Sudanese government and human rights organizations for working to secure the release of prisoners at Gitmo, which has been called "the GULAG of our times" by Amnesty International. Closed-door military tribunals, for example, have been riddled with problems, including courtroom speakers that have a mysterious tendency for being blocked during key testimony.

It may be 2013, but the African island of Madagascar is facing a public health threat straight out of the Middle Ages: At least 20 people in the country's northwest died last week from the bubonic plague, and 2012 saw some 256 plague cases and 60 deaths--more than in any other country in the world.

One major problem seems to be the rat-infested prisons like the notorious facility in Antanimora, which holds 3,000 inmates. The International Committee of the Red Cross in October warned that the facility's overcrowding and poor sanitary conditions present a serious plague threat--not just to prisoners, but to those outside its walls, too, since inmates' relatives can catch the disease when they visit the facility, and detainees are often released without having been treated. To stem infections, authorities have been disinfecting the prison and trying to trap rats.

We intend that any final actions resulting from the proposed rules will be based on the best scientific and commercial data available and be as accurate and as effective as possible. Therefore, we request comments or information from other concerned governmental agencies, tribes, the scientific community, industry, or other interested parties concerning the proposed rules. We request that you make your comments as specific as possible and explain the basis for them. In addition, please include sufficient information with your comments to allow us to authenticate any scientific or commercial data you reference or provide.

Our final determinations concerning the proposed actions will take into consideration all written comments we receive during all comment periods, comments from peer reviewers, and comments received during the public hearings. The comments will be included in the public record for the corresponding rulemaking, and we will fully consider them in the preparation of our final determination.

If you previously submitted comments or information on the proposed rules, please do not resubmit them. We will incorporate them into the corresponding public record as part of this comment period, and will fully consider them in the preparation of our final determination.

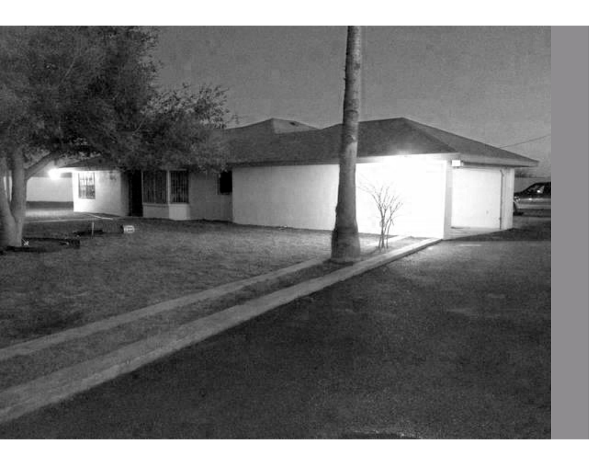
A weather system moving into the Pacific Northwest will bring rain to coastal regions, along with snow to the Intermountain West and northern Plains into Thursday. Snowfall amounts will generally be light, though as much as 5-8 inches is possible in the higher elevations of the mountains. The system will also bring much colder air to the northern Plains and Upper Midwest beginning on Thurs. Read More...

Before you give your houseplants that next drink of water, you should know that, according to Ohio State University researchers, cold water can destroy the ability of root cells to take in water and nutrients. Water below 50 degrees Fahrenheit was found to reduce leaf size, cause leaf drop and eventually contributed to the death of potted plants. Those plants that require frequent watering, such as Spathphyllum and Ficus, are especially prone to damage and should not be watered with water below 65 degrees. Other tests showed that warmer water of about 90 degrees actually stimulated growth.

The WANK worm had a distinct political message attached, and it was the first major worm to have a political message. WANK in this context stands for Worms Against Nuclear Killers.

The worm coincidentally appeared on a DECnet computer network shared between NASA and the US Department of Energy days before the launch of a NASA space shuttle carrying the Galileo spacecraft. At the time, there were protests outside the Kennedy Space Center in Florida by anti-nuclear groups regarding the use of the plutonium-based power modules in Galileo. The protesters contended that if this shuttle blew up "like Challenger did", the plutonium spilled would cause widespread death to residents of Florida.

The worm propagated through the network pseudo-randomly from one system to the other by using an algorithm which converted the victim machine's system time into a candidate target node address (composed of a DECnet Area and Node number) and subsequently attempted to exploit weakly secured accounts such as SYSTEM and DECNET that had password identical to the usernames. The worm did not attack computers within DECnet area 48, which was New Zealand. A comment inside the worm source code at the point of this branch logic indicated that New Zealand was a nuclear free zone. New Zealand had recently forbidden U.S. nuclear-powered vessels from docking at its harbors, thus further fueling the speculation inside NASA that the worm attack was related to the anti-nuclear protest. The line "You talk of times of peace for all, and then prepare for war" is drawn from the lyrics of the Midnight Oil song Blossom and Blood; Midnight Oil are an Australian rock band known for their political activism and opposition to both nuclear power and nuclear weapons. The process name of the second version of the worm to be detected was "oilz", an Australian shorthand term for the band.



When Dhondup Wangchen picked up a video camera for the first time in his life, he knew it was at great personal risk.

His film, "Leaving Fear Behind," criticizes China's promise of greater freedom in the run-up to the 2008 Beijing Olympics. China's repression in Tibet has only worsened.

Dhondup Wangchen was severely punished for the film. Tried in secret, tortured and denied treatment for his health condition, Dhondup Wangchen is serving an unbelievable 6-year sentence for "inciting separatism."

Demand Dhondup Wangchen's immediate and unconditional release.

Dhondup Wangchen is one of 10 urgent human rights cases highlighted in Amnesty International's 2013 Write for Rights campaign, the world's largest and most effective letter-writing event.

Tibetans need strong voices like Dhondup Wangchen's to stand with them against the assault on their human rights:

- Nomads are evicted from their pastures

- Schoolchildren are expelled for requesting Tibetan textbooks

- Monasteries are under constant surveillance

Several Tibetans have responded with desperate acts of protest -- including setting themselves on fire -- as a last attempt to demand the same freedom and rights to which every human being is entitled.

A perdurable characteristic of cryptography and cryptographers is duplicity often discussed and debated in the field, cheated and lied about, preened and ridiculed.

Crypto's essential role in projecting and protecting power requires duplicity to serve officials and counter-officials, know thy enemy, as Machiavelli and others have observed.

Reputation building of cryptosystems and cryptographers proceeds duplicitously. Crypto technology, broadly communications security, is defined as a dual-use munition for that reason.

10 diaries 10 states in the world in our worlds in our World in our fight to unable to integrate what we do not suspect. The interactions of this World I don't know them I know to describe to observe I have the ability to feel under the pen the squealing heat or the incredible traffic imposed amazing and sometimes fatal. I recognize in past writings the disappearance of what I seen, loved, where I learned to live, and this insult to the people of which I am radicalized me in positions necessarily clear. These are the 10 states that I submit here. States of war, in war, states of deflagrations and intimate misunderstanding, states of ruins and disappearance. My narration often nervous does not offer repentance or compassion, they write joy, as the annihilation of a smile.

JOSEPHINE SUNSHINE OVERAKER Aliases: Lisa Rachelle Quintana, Lisa R. Quintana, Maria Rachelle Quintana, Maria Quintana, "Osha", "Jo", "China", "Josie", "Mo" Overaker may seek employment as a firefighter, a midwife, a sheep tender, or a masseuse.

Overaker is fluent in Spanish. She is known to use illegal narcotics. Overaker may have a light facial moustache. She was a vegan and may still be. Overaker is an American citizen. On January 19, 2006, a federal grand jury in Eugene, Oregon, indicted Josephine Sunshine Overaker on multiple charges related to her alleged role in a domestic terrorism cell. Overaker was charged with two conspiracy violations related to seventeen incidents, five counts of arson, one count of attempted arson, and one count of destruction of an energy facility. These crimes occurred in Oregon, Washington, California, Colorado, and Wyoming, and date back to 1996. Many of the crimes she is accused of participating in were claimed to be committed by the Earth Liberation Front (ELF) or the Animal Liberation Front (ALF). REWARD The FBI is offering a reward of up to $50,000 for information leading to the arrest of Josephine Sunshine Overaker.

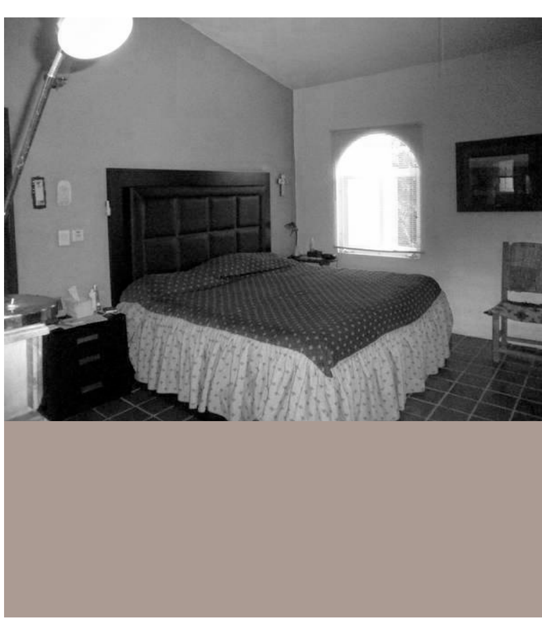
Not being Navajo, there were no "first laugh" ceremonies in my household. But who could forget their child's first laugh? It's like having one of the mysteries of life presented to you out of nowhere, right in your own house. That laugh comes from some unknown place deep inside. It may be a response to surprise (peekaboo... now, I'm here, now I'm gone, now I'm back again!) or who knows what, but it's granted to us, imprinted on us, with a kind of inexpressible joy. The Navajos evidently consider a baby's first laugh the moment you become a social being, enter the human community, and join the rest of us -- and the person who induces that laugh has the honor of holding the ceremony. Anyone who has ever gotten a classic belly laugh; out of a baby certainly has a sense that an honor has indeed been bestowed and that a ceremony should be in order.

The laugh is assumedly there to take you through a dark world without a total loss of joy, to join you to the rest of us in the conspiracy of life, and to give you a little distance on what passes for reality. It precedes anything we would normally consider humor, reflecting the deepest comedy at our core. Anyone who has had a child undoubtedly noticed that the laugh also precedes the punch line, that the form of the joke is somehow a pleasure even before you understand why a chicken crossing the road is funny or what that rabbi, penguin, and president were doing in a bar. It's far deeper and truer.



When we landed in the Philippines, the first thing we noticed were the trees. Entire groves had been snapped in half and scattered like matchsticks. Not a single tree remained standing.

One of the most powerful storms on record, Typhoon Haiyan claimed nearly 6,000 lives in the Philippines and destroyed entire cities. In the wake of the tragedy, we traveled to the country earlier this month to survey the relief operations of the UN's World Food Programme (WFP). As the world's largest humanitarian agency dedicated to hunger, WFP has staff stationed across the globe. In Haiyan's immediate aftermath, 125 WFP staffers flew to the Philippines from all over the world to assist the national government. Within hours of landfall, WFP began mobilizing prepositioned food supplies, including rice from Sri Lanka and high-energy biscuits from Bangladesh, to reach survivors as quickly as possible. So far, more than 9 million pounds of rice has been dispatched, along with nearly 400,000 pounds of high-energy biscuits.

A quiet weather pattern will remain in place over much of the U.S. through the end of the week. Light snow will continue across the northern tier into New England. Accumulations are expected to be minimal with the exception of heavier snows around the Great Lakes. Elevated to Critical Fire Weather conditions will continue across southern California with moderate to locally strong Santa Ana Winds.

Women who report being sexually assaulted by prison staff face abuse and isolation.

It seems absurd that a person who has been sexually assaulted would be punished for speaking up, especially since prison policy prohibits sexual contact between staff and the people whom they guard. Yet, in many women's prisons, those who report rape and other forms of sexual assault by prison personnel are often sent to solitary confinement.

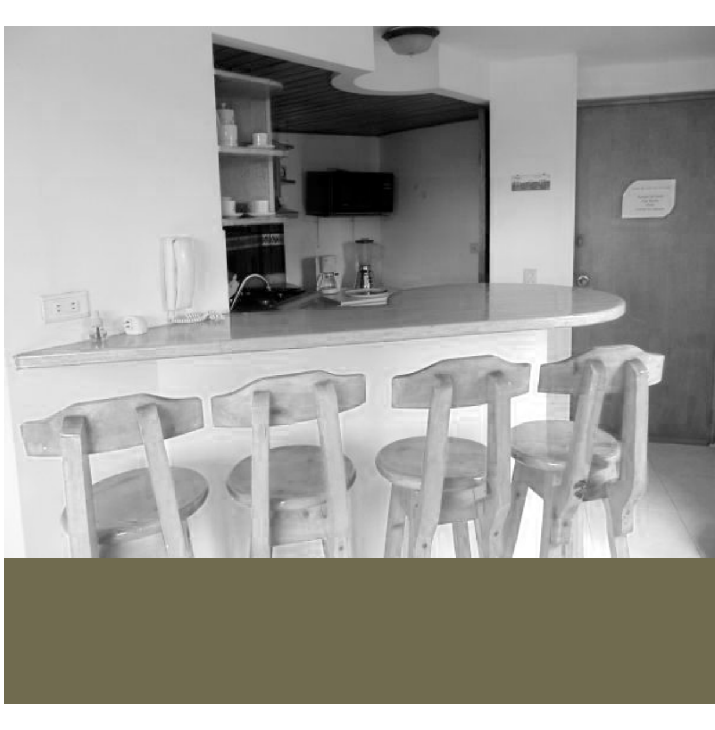
After enduring over a year of repeated sexual assaults by a guard, Stacy Barker became one of 31 women incarcerated in Michigan who filed /Nunn v MDOC/, a 1996 lawsuit against the Department of Corrections for the widespread sexual abuse by prison guards. The following year, Barker was repeatedly sexually assaulted by an officer, who was also a defendant in /Nunn./ After a month of silence, she reported the assaults to a prison psychiatrist. Barker was immediately placed in segregation and then transferred to Huron Valley Center, which was then a psychiatric hospital for prisoners. There, she reported that hospital attendants verbally harassed her.

On Thursday, a U.S. drone strike hit a convoy traveling to a wedding in Yemen, killing about a dozen civilians. The New York Times reports 11 deaths, while other reports state 17. A recent AFP report states that two of the victims were on the Yemeni government's list of wanted Al Qaeda suspects, while most of the others have been confirmed as civilians.

The drone strike follows one on Monday that killed three people traveling in a car in Yemen. Last week, Al Qaeda claimed responsibility for an attack on Yemen's Defense Ministry Hospital that left 52 people dead and 160 wounded. According to The New York Times, Al Qaeda-linked websites stated that this attack was in retaliation for drone strikes.

This reiterates the sentiment heard in villages throughout Yemen. Mohamed al-Qawli, the brother of an innocent drone victim in Yemen, told Reuters: "These (drone) strikes create more terrorism. In our area there was never anyone linked to al Qaeda. After the strike, everyone in the area started listening to al Qaeda types, exchanging videos on mobile phones."

Mezcal can be consumed as a straight drink or in cocktails, such as the Donaj made with orange juice, grenadine, gusano worm salt and ice.



Choose from a variety of flavors -- minero (white), con gusano (with worm) or pechuga (chicken breast).

You can also choose the mezcal on the basis of aging -- joven mezcals are very young. A strong drink is the joven white mezcal. Smoother options include reposados, aged for two months, and aejo, aged for at least one year.

Mezcals can also be served with herbs and fruits. These are curados.
